EMINENT JURIST FREES SWINDLER

Bogart, of United Wireless, Hears Judge Martin Fine Him $2,500.

By DAN SYKES.

Following the conviction and sencompanies, and an attempt will be tencing to prison terms of five officials grove, Knicp, Phelps, Matthews and made to establish a standard wage of the bogus United Wireless Tele-Glauz. scale for all shops. The pickets re- graph Company of America, Judge Martin yesterday rendered another of his famous high jump opinions in the case of Samuel S. Bogart, vice president of the concern.

> Martin let Bogart off with a fine of $2,500. In imposing a fine on Bogart. Judge Martin explained why the penalty in Bogart's case was less sever in these words:

The reason why this defendant is fined is that he is a man skilled in the art or science of telegraphy, and by reason of his experience in that line he was, to use a common expression, roped into the company.

A verdict of guilty on all four counts of the indictment charging misuse of the mails in a scheme to defraud was returned on Monday be-fore Judge Martin in the United States Circuit Court, by the Jury which tried the cases of Col. Chris-topher Columbus Wilson, president; W. A. Diboll, treasurer; Francis X. Butler, its counsel; George W. Par-ker, its Western sales agent and W. W. Tompkins, who ran the mastern agency for the sales of wireless shares to the public.

The verdict was returned against all the defendants allike, and Judge Martin imposed these sentences:

C. C. Wilson, three years in the Atlanta penitentiary; George W. Parker, two years in the Atlanta penitentiary; Francis X. Butler, two years in the Atlanta penitentiary; W. W. Tompkins, one year in the New York Coun-ty penitentiary; W. A. Diboll, one year in the New York County penitentiary.

The costs of the trial, which are said to aggregate $50,000, were taxed against them and proceed to collect if possible from Wilson and Parker, both of whom accumulated large fortunes through the campaign to peddle the worthless stock of the United Wireless Company to small investors all over the country.

Bogart had been promised immunity as a reward for telling on his fellow crooks, and Judge Martin was easily able to frame the sophistre needed to cover his release with a fine of $2,500.

In of $2,000.

POLICE DISCOVER FRIGHTFUL MURDER

Woman's Body for Months in Tub of Acid---Husband Held.

The police are apparently baffled by the murder of a woman, whose body was found in a state of decomposition lying face downward in the bathtub of a flat at 511 East 78th street. The police say that the bottom of the tub was covered with quicklime to hasten the decomposition, thus making identification difficult.

The resolution points to the fact that the Tobacco Trust has been ound guilty by the Supreme Court, to the further fact that its officers thereby become liable to criminal prosecution and proceeds to ask the Attorney General what he is going to do about it.

Harlan Angers Colleagues.

Strained relations between Senior Justice John M. Harlan and the other eight members of the Supreme Court of the United States have resulted from the biting vigor of the oral views expressed by Justice Harlan in the Tobacco Trust case, according to authentic information today.

Justice Harlan had prepared a brief typewritten statement embodying his dissenting views on the tobacco case but he launched into an oral rendi-tion of this dissent, however, and de-parted completely from this outline and astonished his auditors by the bitter sarcasm with which he at-tacked Chief Justice White's "rufe of reason" decerting.

Later developments show that the House Committee on War had been considering the matter for a week, when the premature publication by The Call, and the failure of the people to respond with wild acclaim, alarmed the administration, and caused the resignation of Secretary of War Dickerson. There is no doubt in the mind of the Appeal that except for the agitation against war maintained by the Socialists, and the appathy on the part of the public that followed this agitation, invasion of Mexico would have occurred a month ago. Along in January, when the troops were fresh on the border, the Appeal declared they were not sent to aid Diaz, but on Morgan's instance in order that the United States might take possission of Mexico and the Steel Trust gain the concessions in Lower California which it was unable to obtain from Diaz, At that time the evidence was rather hazy, though the Appeal knew what now has been long all the other once more to the country, and there utilize their labor. Lower California which it was unable citizens to go back, settle in the new-the evidence was rather hazy, though utilize their labor. the Appeal knew what now has been confirmed, that American sples were even then mapping Mexico, with the aid of civil engineers, and that not only the conquest, but also the practical partitioning of the land among the American trusts had been practically agreed on. The Appeal joined the protest with a full understanding of what was involved, and as a main starting point of every serious result of the agitation the people do not enthuse over the idea of a war of conquest. There will be no invasion now unless the Mexicans, besch as in the embassies, as a servant vasion now unless the Mexicans become too strong in protesting against the parties living off their country by American trusts.—Appeal to Reason.

"After a six months' sojourn in the great republic of America, and in the cities of Canada, as an Armenian writer and revolutionary propagandist, I venture to address to you a few lines embodying my modest opinions, which I formed from personal observations.

"In more than fifty cities, I saw a many Armenian immigrants, 50,000 in number, most of whom have fled from the Yataghan of Hamid while some others have come here on account of economic conditions, which have driven them out of their land.

"It was my privilege in a great many cities to meet and see Turks, Greeks, Bulgarians and Kurds, all of them Ottoman citizens, who have taken refuge in this country, on account of unfavorable political and economic conditions.

"In all, there are 400,000 Ottoman immigrants, mostly composed or young men, the cream of the Ottofrom each ward, now to give way to small compact body of nine men, appoint man empire, deserving special care and attention on the part of all those elected by the people of the city at large, who love the empire of Asia Minor This was made possible by the passage and attention on the ruins of forward and strive to see, on the ruins of forward and strive to see, on the ruins of forward and strive to see.

The first of them is the question of immigration and the second that of the solidarity of all the elements. both of them vital and imperative,

They, being educated in the atmosphere of the New World, can more easily come out of the pale of racial and religious antagonism which has been the cause of so much trouble, and they can take with them a new spirit and a new word from the New World, which is the land of the New World, which is the land of harmony and solidarity. All the immisrants who send from here, along with money, all sorts of instruction to their city, village, home and relatives, may give the most important instruction, the instruction of solidarity and fraternity. Animosity Between Races.

"I was sorry to see in some cities of the United States dissensions and furious animosity between Armenians and Bulgarians, Assyrians and Albanians. At the same time I noticed with great pleasure that the efforts for solidarity are having good results. Member of Parliament Says President's Offer Has "Whittled Away."

LONDON, May 36 .- Rowland Hunt, Unionist M. P., who has made it his special business to bait Edward Grey. the British Foreign Secretary, on the subject of President Taft's arbitration proposal, returned to the charge ectations which had been raised by the President's original offer had been whittled away, as ratification by the Senate was required, and the propo could no longer be regarded as the basis for a treaty of unrestricted arbitration.

"May we hope," he asked, "that in the future the government will not allow itself to be bamboozled by foreign powers?"

Grey informed the House of Commons today that the full text of the proposed arbitration treaty between the United States and Great Britain had been received from Washington added that the government both parties have sent word to their relatives to the same effect, and as a result or that instigation the two ele-ments of the same village—Armenians vouid have to consider it fully and carefully before commenting on its provisions.

Replying to a query as to whether the British Ministers had allowed themselves to be bamboozled with reference to the high expectations which had been raised on this subject. Grey said the time to decide whether these expectations had been disap-pointed or not was when the treaty had been agreed to.

After considering the present draft of the treaty the government would make its bwn suggestions to the Amer-ican government. Discussion as to various points in the treaty would then proceed between the two gov-ernments, after which their opinions would be made public and discussed.

Must Use All Forces.

To carry out this splendid plan. It is necessary to set in motion all forces, all the colonies with all their recognitions. It is to be hoped that the membership of the branch will take the matter up at the next meeting and rebuke the Comrades responsible not only for their utter lack of the spirit of co-operation, but also for the useless waste of the funds of the organization in an attempt to hold a meeting at an unfavorable date which could just as well have been arranged for another time.

THE CALL AND NEW SUBWAYS.

Editor of The Call:

I, as well as many of my Comrades and friends, are surprised at not see-ing any discussion of the prospects of the new subway construction in the mns of The Call. This is a prob-that is nearest to us and of immediate and practical importance We, as workers and citizens, are vitally concerned whether or not we are going to give up hundreds of millions of ours and posterity's hard worked for dollars in order that one or a few gangs of capitalists may grow fatter and meaner. The Socialist party has always demanded municipally constructed, owned and operated subways, and this is also the popular outers made and then betrayed by Mayor Gaynor. If we would at this moment write and repeat and prove the great ad-vantages of municipal subways for workers and citizens at large, at the same time disclosing the dark and unscrupulous methods of the capitalists and politicians involved in as big a grab as this. We would prove over-whelmingly to every plain, honest and unmuzzled citizen that we are in the right all the time, therefore earnest and sincere in our denunciations of the capitalist parties and entirely different and opposed to them.

It would prove that the interests of labor are watched for at every point and are with us above any and all

Then labor would have begun to have faith and respect for us. And when you have got his heart and sym-pathy, his mind is open to conviction and you reap a plentiful harvest.

Is it not immeasurably easier to convince a non-Socialist of the solidness of our principles in their application to the near and burning questions like the subway one, than on the analysis of the Guggenheim and Morgan interests in Alaska, or Rev.

Charles Edward Russell's advice to read only Socialist papers is at present invalid to the residents of thi

New York, May 29. HISTORY OF THE MACHINISTS

FIGHT. Editor of The Call:

The correspondence in this column in reference to the machinists' strike has been very interesting, but it seems to me that the readers of The Call will understand the situation bet-ter if a brief statement of facts concerning the machinists' organizations in this locality is given. This I will endeavor to do.

To begin with, there are two machinists' organizations in existence in chinists' organizations in existence in the locality, the Brotherhood of Machinists and the International Association of Machinists. The B. of M. They were even successful in forcing a few of our members out of a certain sheen organized not quite two years, and while the organization itself is new, a good many of its members have had years of experience in the labor movement as members of their families. While they have not been generally successful in doing this dirty work we know what they would do if they were only consented to put the matter before the membership of the New York district for a referendum vote. After the vote had been taken it was found that two-thirds of the members voting on the proposition had voted in favor of holding a new election, and to place the old officials in their positions until the new election had decided who was to be the officers.

The grang lodge officials did not expect the vote to go that way, nor add they want it, for the; proved to us later that they were well satisfied with the way things were going in the district, as it gave them an opportunity to get rid of a portion of the members in New York who had dared to oppose them at the last two elections for grang lodge officers, and who were responsible for exposing a wery prominent member and former grand lodge official as being a grafter, who had sold out the machinists of the Eric Rallroad like a lot of cattle for so much per head. The evidence that we had against this grafter was so strong ang convincing that the convention of the L. A. of M. held at St. Louis, Mo., in 1907, expelled him from the organization.

While we could only set the evidence against this one individual we dence against this one individual we should. For the transment that we dence against this one individual we should. Jury Awards Boy Worker Damages and Holds Machine "Dangerous."

Time-worn contention of h that workers "assume the risk" of being maimed when they volunteer to hire out was defeated yesterday. Justice Goff, in the Supreme Court, decided that an embossing machine in a sign making shop is a "dangerous machine" under the interpretation of the Labor Law of 1896. Likewise a jury has awarded to Oswald Bachmann, Jr., a verdict for $1,500 damages against Little & Preuss, sign manufacturers, of 309 East 22d

WILL THEY GO TO PRISON?

There has been, for some time, the fervently expressed belief that if "one really responsible man" was sent to prison the unspeakable corruption, violence and treachery in "big business" would be summarily ended. The chance is here, and is founded in the events of the past couple of weeks. Suppose the authorities send to prison J. Pierpont Morgan and George W. Perkins for their crimes in connection with Tennessee Coal and Iron and in bringing about the panic of 1907; Andrew Carnegie, for his criminal work in fleecing credulous millionaires in the purchase of his holdings for the formation of the Stee. Trust: Thomas F. Ryan and James B. Duke for what they did in the case of the Tobacco Trust, and John D. Rockefeller, Archbold, Flagler and the others for their crimes in connection with Standard Oil? Here is an imposing list, small though it is, for these men control more wealth than any other group that could be brought to-Yet that infallible and impeccable authority, the United States Supreme Court has declared all of them guilty of practices which amount to violations of law. In actual effect these men have resorted to force, deceit and crookedness, have procured the commission of crime, have intimidated, have driven men to suicide, have robbed industrial concerns and banks, have forced rivals out of business, have utilized public wealth and public office for their own ends, and have consistently and persistently interfered with business.

What their actions meant to the working class need not be considered here. No doubt hundreds of thousands of workers were thrown out of employment and tens of thousands of workers, through slow starvation, were prematurely driven to their graves. No doubt the rule of these men has been systematically productive of poverty with its concomitant suffering. No doubt they have helped fill asylums, hospitals for the mentally and physically stricken, and ceme-teries. But for this, under capitalism, there seems to be no punish-But they have been guilty of something else, and the Supreme Court has declared it, or a Congressional investigating committee has discovered it. Take the case of Standard Oil. It is a criminal corporation, operating in restraint of trade. Some of its constituent branches were brought in under duress. They were held in by brute force and economic threats. Such concerns as proved obdurate were ruthlessly crushed, and those who backed these concerns were impoverished For these crimes, extending back over many years, the United States Supreme Court has decreed that the Standard Oil shall go out of business. Going out of business, in this instance, simply means that a closer, more efficient, more concentrated corporation will be formed. So in order to impress the public that it is really in earnest, why does not the government really do something to the criminals guilty of organizing this guilty corporation. If not more than one example is desired, John D. Rockefeller might be it.

The same holds true of the Tobacco Trust. It is younger in years, but it is old in crime. Its crimes began at organization. There are two men connected with it who easily might be sent to prison, Ryan and Duke. According to the recent decision of the Supreme Court their crimes must have been particularly flagrant.

Best of all are those two wealthy exponents of the Money Trust, Morgan and Perkins. They are directly accused of having precipitated the crash of 1907, of having looted, for the benefit of the Steel Trust, a great and wealthy corporation, Tennessee Coal and Iron, of having shaken down and killed a few banks, and of having driven the head of one of these banks, Barney, of the Knickerbocker Trust, to commit suicide. Their crimes are recent and are particularly dastardly. They drew with them a whole train of suffering, and surely they should not be permitted to go unpunished.

After the panic of 1907 Charles W. Morse was sent to prison. But this, also, was a crime when the matter is considered. It was a piece of unusual vindictiveness on the part of the Morgan forces. FEAR IN THE JUNGLE

"Very softly through the Jungle runs a waiting, watching shade, And the whisper spreads and widens far and near; And the sweat is on thy brow, for he passes even now-

He is Fear, O Little Hunter, he is Fear." Kipling's "Song of the Little Hunter."

In one of his fascinating Mowgli stories, Kipling recounts in the mythology of the Jungle how Fear first came upon its inhabitants, when the First of the Tigers, forgetting that he had been made deputy master and judge of the Jungle, in a moment of anger settled a grazing dispute between two bucks by breaking the neck of one of the disputants with a blow of his paw, for which crime Tha, the First of the Elephants and Lord of the Jungle, decreed that forever after he and his children should be marked with stripes and bars.

In our modern capitalistic Jungle, however, when Fear comes on the inhabitants, its existence serves as opportunity for the greater carnivora to devour their lesser brethren without fear of retribution. as the recent story of multimillionaire Gates recounting the manner of the absorption of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company during the Fear of 1907 amply illustrates.

Morgan, the mightiest of the Tigers, immediately got busy. After persuading Theodore, the First of the Elephants and (apparent) Lord of the Jungle, that Fear would descend upon the inhabitants if he were not permitted to make the aforesaid concern his prey, he immediately appropriated it and instead of being sentenced to stripes and bars, was, on the contrary, acclaimed as Savior of the Jungle. And Gates, the informer, adds that not a dollar changed hands in the transaction, and that it could in no way have any effect either in "restoring confidence" or diminishing it. Theodore was informed by Frick and Gary that the Tennessee concern was in bad shape and it is not altogether original, as the that its assimilation by the Steel Trust was necessary to avert a

Accordingly, the absorption took place, and thousands of the "Little Hunters" of the capitalistic Jungle were relieved of their property and their fear at the same time.

And now, after three years have passed, the latter, apparently recovered from their fright, have been clamoring for investigations as to the manner of their spoliation. They are getting them. Stand. Encyclopedis Britannica ten times and Oil and the Tobacco Trust have been found guilty and await dissolution with apparent resignation, and the first session of the investigation on the Steel Trust brought out the above interesting admission from Gates.

Evidently the little Jungle people are going to get all the "pub-y" they can possibly desire, but it is doubtful if the information will be of much benefit to them in securing them from further depre-

"In numberless cases the spectacle they present is aitogether inexplicable. There are some, for instance, who, as it were, seem scarcely to stir from their piace. They are to be distinguished by their glossier coat, and often, too, by their more considerable bulk. They occupy buildings ten or twenty times larger than ordinary dwellings, and richer, and more ingeniously fashloned. Every day the spend many hours at their meals, which sometimes, indeed, are prolonged far into the night. They appear to be held in extraordinary honor by those who approach them: men come from the neighboring houses bringing provisions, and even with presents. One can only assume that these persons must be indispensable to the race to which they render essential service, although our means of investigation have not yet enabled us to discover what the brecise nature of this service may be.

There are others, again, who are incessantly engaged in the most wearisome labor, whether it be in great sheds full of wheels, that from sunrise to sunset, they are constantly delving and diaging. We are led to be lieve that this labor must be an offense, and punishable. For the persons guilty of it are boused in filthy ruinous, squalid cabina. They are clothed in some colorless hide. So great does their ardor appear for this noxious, or at any rate, useless activity, that they scarcely allow themselves time to eat or to sleep. In numbers they are to the others as a thousand to one. It is remarkable that the species should have been able to survive to this day under conditions so unfavorable to its development. It should be mentioged, however, that, apart from this characteristic devotion to their wearisome toil, they appear inoffensive and docile, and satisfied with the leavings of those who evidently are the cuardians, if not the saviors, of the race."—From "The Life of the Bee."

"Good again—very, very good!" exciaimed the examiner. "Now, where does coffee come from?"
"Ah, you can't catch me!" retorted the boy, shaking his head. "I ain't goin' to tell you that!"

"Why not, pray?" demanded the examiner, in surprise.
"Why not?" said the boy, with a knowing wink. "Because it's a secret of the trade?"

INDIVIDUAL SUPREMACY.

"gentlemanly defaulters." Mesers. Morse and Walsh, are to re-main in prison, President Taft having turned down the monster petition presented for their release. These ster petitions are by no means a effective as popularly imagined, and we believe that in this particular case a one-man petition would be muc more potent, if the particular on man we have in mind could be found and induced to undertake the task of oftening the stony heart of Mr. Taft, Probably he wouldn't have to do much petitioning either. However, as Mr. Taft says that "to yield to such considerations would defeat the object of the isw," we forbear mentioning the name of the one man to whom we have alluded, though we are fairly certain we have not overestimated his ability in the marter.
