Dr. Sen has long been identified with the revolutionary movement and was one of the leaders of a plot to seize Canton in 1895, and, from that city as a strong-bold, to carry on the revolutionary movement throughout the empire. The plot was discovered, however, fifteen of the instigators were put to death, and Dr. Sen if ded to Hongkong, where he became a British subject.

Since that time he has labored earnestly in the cause of the revolution. In 1900 the he visited and lectured in England, and in this country he appealed especially to Chinese students at the universities.

WORLD SERIES THE UNIVERSAL TOPIC

All day yesterday beseball notables and baseball commoners poured into the city, and what with home and out of towns fans, New York last night harbored more national game enthusiasts than ever before congre-sated for a baseball event. Interest in the world series between the Gianus and Athletics, which begins today at the Polo Grounds, which has been lively for a week, grew feverish yea-terday. The unwonted animation arcund the hotels where baseball folk Pendicton, in Special Term of the Suthemselves into the "Muscatine Com-mercial Club," the striking pearl but-ton workers have established their nighted persons—and the subject of the big diamond battles put every-thing else in the background. The members of the National Commission, the supreme court of base ball—to use a hackneyed, but appro-priate expression—set up their head-quarters in the Waldorf, and that hostelry was the center of the baseball community for the day. Through its corridors trailed at various times dur-ing the day past and present man-ners, players, megnates, camp fol-lowers, fans of high and low degree.

The Martinique, where the Baseball Writers' Association enscenced itself. was another gathering place, and so was the Wolcott, where Ban Johnson lives during baseball reunions. At the Somerset, further uptown, the Ath-letics spent the night. The whole hotel section was like various parts stance! the victor.

There was not so much conjecture lest night and yesterday who the likely winner would be as to what pitchers would be used in today's game. The fans were inclined to lay great stress on the first game, believing that as today's battle goes, so will go the series. Tradition will be preserved it such does prove to be the case, but the manufacture of pearl buttons.

Possibly neither has definitely decided on who would pitch this afternoon.

CINCINNATI WINS AGAIN.

The Reds excelled in the field, snap-py work robbing the Naps of hits. The Naps made their only scores in the seventh and eighth. The Reds got two in the seventh and the rest in the eighth. Nap errors helped boost the Reds total. The score:

CHICAGO, Oct. 13 .- The White Sox

started a batting rally in the ninth for the championship of Chicago to day, got to Brown for four hits and three runs and won the game, 4 to 3. When the Sox went in for their last bat the score was 3 to 1 against them. McIntyre filed out, Bodie and Callahan singled and the infield out of Tannehill advanced them. Zeider, playing first in place of Collins, then out a line hit and the score was tied Kreitz, the young catcher who had replaced Sullivan, then smashed out a single which put Zeider over with the winning run.

For eight innings it was a pitchers battle between Walsh and Brown. Th American League star was in great form and held the Cubs to five hits. They were entitled to but one run, as the two counted by the Cubs in the sixth were the result of a bad throw

"BIG TIM'S" GUN LAW TO AID CRIMINALS

Darling Amazed That Legislature Should Pass It, Considering I.s Father.

Joseph G. Darling, the lawyer, of 116 Nassau street, who is fighting Big Tim Sullivan's Dangerous Weapon Law, or the ground that it is unconstitutional, declared yesterday, before Justice and criminals and that he was amazed at the audacity of the Legislature in passing it, particularly in view of the fact that "Big Tim" fathered it.

Darling then told of his experien rith the criminal class as a Deputy Attorney General and as a watcher at the polls. He asserted that in one polling places in 14th street more polling places in 14th street more than thirty men voted in other men's names and exclaimed:

Darling presented to the court Mr. Valentine's typewritten brief, in which she set forth that his possession of the revolver was lefal, "and that if the Legislature intended the statute to apply to such weapons as were law fully owned or possessed before its passage it was unconstitutional."

Mrs. Valentine's next point was:
"A statute-regulating the possession or use of personal property can be up-held only on the theory of the police power, which is based on the maxim. Sic utere tuo ut allenum non laedas, when the property in question can be put to none but objectional uses pro-hibition of the bare possession would be justified.

TWO INERT MASSES

It was to have been expected that China would suddenly break into revolution. Law and order, stability and conservative progress, consideration of the sacred rights of property, church and state, and all those other things we have been taught to consider sacred somehow or other have not kept pace with the yellow man's appetite night. for mere food. So following inundations with loss of crops, famine with its resultant plague, local discontent and various other things, poor, patient, long-suffering China has suddenly broken into revolt.

The thoroughly Christian thing to do would be to send thither few warships and seize such portions of Chinese territory as are promising. But the only thing in the way of this is the fact that several nations might have the same idea in mind at the same time. So affairs in China must go on to the point where the self appointed deputies of law and order step in and restore peaceand separate the native from his means of real comfort or customary discomfort.

The unrest in China following so soon after the horrible and uncivilized unrest in Turkey, permits a little close thinking on these seemingly unrelated matters.

Italy as a civilized nation has not so impressed itself on the world that it would be selected as a teacher of nations. It has not made its people at home so comfortable and independent that they

Yet Italy suddenly found itself in the position where it was obliged to go out and teach the Turks civilized manners, that is, it had to show them that they should surrender their lands and possessions when such a course was demanded by a superior power.

It happens that the greatest unexploited portions of the earth are those which are controlled by the Turks and which exist within the Chinese Empir. Capitalism, relentlessly searching for new markets, for new areas for colonization, has long remarked them. Capitalism, which must have in various European countries either a new market or a new field in which to plant the excess workers, has been thoroughly aroused concerning the errors of faith and morals of which the Turk and the Chinaman are guilty. Therefore there should be an invasion.

Such an invasion has begun in Africa under the rather feeble guidance of Italy. The country in the foreground happened to have made a slight inroad which permitted it to begin the work. But the fruits of the present struggle in Tripoli will not come to Italy They will come to that country which can dominate the trade, exploit the natives and make of North Africa a real capitalist

This is true also of the uprising in China. No doubt it was inspired. But we shall have to wait for trade returns to find out who it was that inspired it.

For many years now China, with its enormous territory, has been looked upon as waste. It is true that portions of it are more closely populated than any other section of the earth. But at the same time, there are certain natural resources that have never been exploited and the swarming people have not been brought into the Various friendly nations have sought to teach China the game of capitalism. The best accomplished was that England fastened upon the Chinese people the opium smoking habit, and, to teach them that opium smoking is a desirable habit, slaughtered many China-

Even this did not give to the English or any other nation an opening into Chinese territory. But now the time has come when trifling must be discontinued. Because civilized Europe cannot control, feed and educate its own people, it is in duty bound to do something for heathen lands.

There are no heathen lands more profitable than those of Turkey and China. So Italy, the economically impossible, the socially impotent, has been delegated to "teach Turkey a lesson." A revolt has been fomented in China, possibly by the opium selling

English or German syndicates. It all means the same thing. The lands possessed by the Turks and the Chinese are needed by the capitalist of Europe and America, and means are now being devised to open them up. If the game is successful the working class of the various "enlightened nations" will be forced to pay for the lessons taught their savage brothers.

move it all. The fact was vividly illustrated in the opening of the sale of tickets for the world's baseball champion series to be run in New York and Philadelphia. The wise people who had followed baseball during many years got the worst financial lacing they ever experienced. They were 'done' at every turn of the games. They were buffeted about, thrown into line, insulted and fleeced in a way that must have made their hearts rejoice.

And for what?

Merely for a chance to shiver through a post-season performance. Yet was a post-season performance by two baseball clubs.

In the past no one has ever enjoyed it. No one expects to enjoy it. But such is the power of publicity and advertising that the opening game which happens today, will bring in $80,000. It is all for a stupid, mechanical, worthless performance. Yet that so many people are a willing to endure insulting and to supplie and the work. The most advertised thing today in this country is baseball Only a few people play it, but countless thousands of others follow it with fawning, groveling, debasing submission.
