CO-OPERATIVE MANAGER HELD IN $100 BAIL

Magistrate Corrigan, in the Tombs Court, yesterday, held Sam Cutler, manager of the Co-operative Mineral Water Shop, run by the Mineral Water Workers Union, in $100 bail to keep the peace for three months on a charge of assaulting Hyman Gertchikof, who is said to be working in the interest of the bosses trying to break the union.

The fight between Cutler and Gertchikof occurred in the shop as the latter, together with others, called to ask the union man not to push the case against a boss. Morris Rubin, who was arrested for stabbling a union man, Phillip Cobes.

Ordering Walkout by Balloting Today.

KANSAS CITY. Mo., Jan. 25.—One death in Kansas City. Kan., from spinal meningitis and three new cases in this city today thoroughly aroused the health authorities, and determined efforts are being made to stamp out a threatened epidemic. J. L. Shore, County Assessor of Wyandotte County, was the victim in Kansas City, Kan. The three new cases here probably will prove fatal, it is said.

To combat the disease, the health authorities have ordered all floaters from the cheap lodging houses and have taken other stringent means of preventing further spread. There are now seven cases here and five in Kansas City, Kan.

Jake Reid. 40 years of age, died of the disease at Springfield, Mo., this afternoon, and two other well developed cases were found.

Panama Canal strip by the United States.
"I propose to show that the declaration of independence of Panama was prepared in New York in the office of William Nelson Cromwell, and that November 3, 1803, was the date agreed upon for the beginning of the revolution in Colombia," said Rainey. "Our contention is that the part the, United States played for months prior to this revolution is a stain on the history of this government and that we should make some financial reparation to Colombia."

BRITISH WORKERS NOW VOTE TO DEFY THE LAW

BIRMINGHAM. Jan. 25. — Representatives of the Labor party adopted a resolution at their national convention here today, advising trade unions to defy the law which prevents organized labor from contributing funds for the campaign expenses of candidates for seats in the House of Commons.

J. Ramsay Macdonald, Laborist leader in the House of Commons, chairman of the meeting, made a speech sharply criticizing the government for making all its treaties in secret without first submitting them to Parliament.

He declared that he intended to con-

DECISION A YEAR

Believe Financiers Plan to Amend Public Service Law to Suit Them.

In their efforts to assure the Traction Trust an income of at least $11. 000,000 annually, guaranteed by the city, the financiers, their attorneys and the city officials have postponed definite action on the subway problem for at least one year.

Not wishing to accept the contracts
unless it has been legally informed as to the constitutionality of the preferential payment scheme, the In-terborough is reported to have instituted a "friendly" suit in order to have the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court give its decision on the matter. The Interborough prob-ably intends to thus also nullify the contract which the B. R. T. holds for the Broadway line, as the latter also has the guaranty clause incorporat-ed. It is considered hardly likely that the B. R. T. will relinquish its contract even if it has to forego the preferential payments.

In order to have the Appellate Division decide the legality of the guaranty scheme the Interborough will have to have its contracts signed by the city and must file its plans with the official authorities, which it will do soon. It is reported that to hasten matters, counsel for the Interborough and the city's officials are in secret conference preparing tracts of operation and construction these to  $b_0$  let to the Interborough as "extensions." thus preventing any public bidding on the contracts.

It is further pointed out that in the event of the court deciding in favor of the payment plan, which is extremely doubtful in view of the State constitution clause, which forbids the city pledging its credit to any company, the Legislature would have to amend the Public Service Law.

At a meeting of the Board of Estimate yesterday, Mayor Gaynor was asked by Borough President Connolly, of Queens, to come to some definite action on the plans for the 59th street-Astoria subway. Rather than have "a showdown," the Mayor retired. The Acting President of the Board of Aldermen, Kline, then put Connolly's motion, which intends to force the Mayor into a decision on the Astoria plans.

the Mayor into a decision on the Astoria plans.

The first vote on the resolution was lost, but after a delegation of citizens from Queens Borough had spoken of the accessity of better transportation facilities another vote was taken, which carried the motion. Some of the members of the board were reported as saying that the resolution meant nothing more than that they indorsed the plans formulated by the Public Service Commission.

Showing at MacDowell Club Gallery.

In line with the growing tendency of most institutions to divorce them-selves from tradition and the aca-demic is the exhibition of a group of eight painters which opened yester-day at the gallery of the MacDowell Club, 108 West 55th street.

Without exception each member of the group has an individuality though it may here and there result in a canvas that appears a trifle ex-treme, nevertheless impresses one with a sincerity of purpose.

The group consists of Homer Boss. E. Fuhr, W. Glackens, Robert Henri. Ernest Lawson, James Preston, Henry Reuterdahl and John Sloan. Fuhr is represented by six landscapes from Brittany, which, because of their brilliancy of color have been separated from the general grouping and have a wall for themselves. Abe Attell and Danny Goodman, hi chief second in the ring last Thurs-day night, when he fought Knockout Brown at the National Sporting Club were both suspended yesterday after-noon, by Commissioners O'Neil and noon by Commissioners O'Neil and Dixon, constituting the State Boxing are refused permission to participat in any contests for a period of six months at any boxing club within the were found guilty of willful and deliberate lying in the testimony giv-en by them at hearings at the com-mission offices, at 41 Park row.

Attell had claimed he was drugged by Dr. Joseph Safian, the club physi-cian of the National Sporting Club. on the night he fought Brown. He accessory to the fact. Goodman had sworn Wednesday that he did not know anything about Attell making a couple of wagers on the result of his contest. This was contradicted who testified yesterday the paper. Goodman came down to his office and previously admitted that Attell he had at first wanted to bet on him that Jimmy Carroll, a Frisco feather weight, had told him that he had heard that Commissionel O'Neil was determined to investigate the Attell-Brown bout because he had himself wagered $50 on the result, and was therefore sore over the consequence. This was flatly denied by Carroll yesterday's hearing. There wasn't a scintilla of evidence produced by any which seemed to be entirely unfounded.

The commissioners will go over the testimony and if the evidence warrants it charges of perjury against both Attell and Goodman will be presented to District Attorney Whitman. Meanwhile, an investigation will be instituted against the National Sport ing Club to determine once and for all as to the right ownership and management of that institution.

Commissioners O'Neil and Dixon also made several rulings of more clubs were to "weigh in" house on the night of the fight, under the spectators before they start to box. ## VARIED OPINIONS ON VARIED SUBJECTS

AS TO LITERATURE.

Editor of The Call:

Would you kindly allow me to state in the columns of The Call my long thought and irrefutable opinion of the Socialist propaganda literature issued in leastet form recently and at present by Local New York? I want it post tively understood that what is contained in my argument has been gath ered during the past year, when, as literature agent and an active distributer, the opoprtunities presented value of our educational and agitaof the Na- tion literature. So it must not be sum med up as crank or fool talk.

If any Comrade who reads this letter and disagrees with me I hope he leaflet many were good, indeed, very good, splendidly written by a Social- ply laughable, and this we are ist and understood in the majority of pected to give as a stimulant to the cases by a Socialist. As for the men and women on the outside who hapand women on the outside who hapand women on the outside who happened to read certain of these leaflets but did not comprehend them, well, that was their fault. But what I really want to know is, are these poor devilush political heathens below our belief in the vete last year. What done isn political heathens below our belief to be blamed or are some of us actually got sense enough to acknowledge that nothing is wrong with the people's faculties, but our present mode of educational and agitational litera.

Workers? See the enormous increase in the vote last year. What done that? Has not thousands of local state and national leafets found their way into the homes of the citizens of New York? Sure it has, I know. North Dakota, first published in the ture (leastet form) is wrong, deadly wrong? And I hope to see the day when it will be abandoned.

Perhaps many Comrades have distributed the Issue as I have done by the hundreds in house to house fashton might disagree with me as to the unfitness and uselessness of ing such nonsense. (I use the word nonsense because many victims claim-

This event a howl that The Call should print I among them sallied forth one bright Sunday morn to carry the message of emancipation to the benighted toilers. How gladly I gave all my 150 copies unto they who knoweth not, thinking there was at last the "go stuff" that must penetrate the mailed skull of the workers. But alas, alack I came back a week later with more "dope" and was met at most doors with such looks a book agent gets from a souty broker. Mothers and fathers, all up in arms against me and those awful Socialists. Why? said they had no idea the Socialists meant destruction and murder, oththe Socialists are entirely welcome to

I secured a copy of that Call cartoo and sought the objectionable parts I read and read in vain for murder and destruction, but could not find it. What then were these people objecting to? Glancing up at the car-toon, I understood. Lying prostrate on the ground was the working class (a woman), standing over her a bloody dirk amid the ruins of laws and democracy, was a fiendish old gentleman often misnamed "Capitalism." High in the air could be seen the coming revolution, and skipping off into some dense wood was a fer associates of capitalism. (As one Comrade suggested to me, it looked planation is neessary reader. But I would ask a question. Could you possibly conceive anything or have any bug?

Socialist movement tolerates this nonsense. At certain times similar cartoons and editorials have been such by The Call that were so abor inable and exaggerated, it was sir I helped do it. And we ought to be ashamed to admit that from all these thousands of pieces of "good revolu-tionary sinft" the increase became thousands of pieces of "good revolu-tionary stuff" the increase became only normal. No doubt an increase was inevitable, but that does no

As no mention has been made of the State Bulletin and the National office leaflets it can be added that up to six months ago to read a leaflet issue from Chicago meant the calling into use of opera glasses. The State Bulletin would make a splendid sheet if improved upon and published more

I suppose now you understood mi I suppose now you understood my position in this matter and you want to know if there can be a change for the better? There can. How? Whi is the guilty one that claims to have an idea—a real idea? The writer stands convicted.

The following is the prospectus of the new theory of Socialist propagations.

the new theory of Socialist propaganda in literature form. It can be re It can be applied either in New York City or in New York State.

IGNORANT AND UNASHAMED

Under ordinary circumstances the average man is not prone to acknowledge complete ignorance on any subject to which he claims to have given attention. It is not "human nature," so to speak. But there are exceptions to every rule, and there are circumstances under which such a confession of ignorance may even seem commendable to the person who makes it, such person being blissfully unconscious that it really means a lack of intelligence on his

For instance, we note a correspondent of the Tribune writing in that paper to say that though he had read twice over, and most carefully, the article that appeared recently in its columns, on Socialism, from the pen of John R. McMahon, he could get no in-formation from it. Two of his friends to whom he submitted it found it equally unmeaning. He claimed to have read a dozen works on Socialism, Marx included, but is as ignorant of the meaning of Socialism as when he started. Regarding the McMahon article, he observes that "to a Socialist there might be much light, but to one who was seeking information, there was nothing edu-

No doubt, the question never occurred to him how it happened that Socialist writings meant something to other people, who, before they read them, were not Socialists, but became so afterward.

And the distinction that he draws between a Socialist and "one who is seeking information" is certainly astounding in its fatuousness. That one making it needs "educating," goes without saying, but the possibility of educating such a one at all must be con-

To this man there is nothing shameful or humiliating in making such a confession, though some forty million other people throughout the world have grasped at least something of the sub-ject out of which he can get nothing but "a jumble of words."

This type of mind-perhaps it should be called lack of mindis not often met with outside asylums for imbeciles or homes for the feeble-minded. We may perhaps pity an honest ass, but it is not possible to admire him, even when he parades his asininity for exhibition.

Sometimes, however, a doubt of the actual honesty of the ass may arise from some of his admissions, but even then the plea of invincible ignorance comes to his rescue. It might be pointed out, for instance, that this particular ignoramus claims to have read "a dozen works on Socialism, from Marx down." And if his attention is called to the fact that Marx did not write about Socialism, that the word is never mentioned in his "Das Kapital," and that its contents deal exclusively with political economy, an "analysis of capitalistic production," as it claims to be, the ass is not cornered. for he protests that he did not understand a word of it, and therefore could not be expected to know what it was about.

All that can be said of this type is that as Socialism was not intended for idiots, they are necessarily exempt. To this particular ignoramus the Socialist might retort in the words of old Dr. Samuel

In the special is might retort in the words of old Dr. Samuel Johnson, "I have found you a reason, sir; I cannot find you an understanding."

It may be perhaps that this correspondent cannot relish the intellectual food set before him by Socialist writers, and does not consider it to be food at all. But there will be a change of menufor his benefit in next Sunday's Tribune, when Mr. Conde B. Pallen, editor and manager of the Catholic Encyclopedia, provides an anti-Socialist article as an offset to the McMahon effort. And we make not the slightest doubt that the ignoramus in question will read it and claim to understand and approve of every word of Mr. Pallen's essay, declare to all and sundry his belief that it has knocked Socialism into the now proverbial "cocked hat," and still insist that he has not the slightest conception of what Socialism means.

A correspondent directs our attention to the proposal that Cardinal O'Connell, on his arrival in Boston from Rome, should be received with a military escort consisting of part of the armed forces of the State, and asks us to denounce this feature of the reception. We have heard since that the Governor has refused to permit the regiment in question to parade under arms on the occasion, and that the ecclesiastic in charge of the reception has also concluded that they shall not attend. So denunciation becomes superfluous. But we may state frankly that had the proposal been carried out, we should not have said one word in protest or denunciation, though we should certainly have had something to say on the matter in the way of explanation. iditions, we are of the opinion that on the pen whole the reception of His Eminence by a State armed body would have been both appropriate and proper, and in a certain sense we regret that the proposal is not to be carried out.

Governor Foss, it seems, is of the opinion that as the Church and the State are in law held to be separate institutions, the contemplated parade under arms is out of order. And this obsolete idea is still held as a valid objection, though it represents what was once a much more actual condition than it now is.

The Church, which is represented by His Eminence Cardinal O'Connell, is fast becoming an equal power with the State, and its spokesmen on thousands of occasions have represented it as the chief bulwark of the State against any social or industrial change, in fact, as the only power on which the capitalist state can rely in its coming time of need. The President of the United States and his Cabinet have attended its religious functions en masse, and the highest and mightiest in the land have been obsequious in its honor and apparently delighted to recognize it as an ally. And yet, forsooth, an insignificant militia regiment is prohibited from doing honor to one of its highest representatives by furnishing him with an armed escort on his arrival from the Eternal City after his promotion by the Vicegerent of God, for no other reason apparently than that the public might get a correct impression of the nature of the growing relation between the State and that particular church

We are of the opinion that the spectacle of Cardinal O'Connell proceeding in triumph through the streets of Boston, inclosed on each side by a forest of bristling bayonets, would not only have been highly appropriate but would also have left a most beneficial impression on the minds of all the citizens of that burg, both Catholic and non-Catholic, especially the latter. There is a considerable potency in military display for disturbing political somnolence and thereby assisting in political education. And New England, as well as other parts of the country, needs waking up to the importance of this matter. A squad of militiamen officially presenting arms to a Prince of the Church makes a much clearer mental impression than the spectacle of the President and his Cabinet doing honor to another prince of the same church, "in an unofficial capacity." That distinction between official and unofficial constitutes for the public a profound difference of viewpoint.

We, of course, have no power in the matter, but if we had, we we, or course, have no power in the matter, but if we had, we should not raise a finger to prevent the contemplated military reception to Cardinal O'Connell. He and his brethren have deserved well of the State and are fully entitled to public acknowledgment at its hands, though unfortunately the State lacks courage to recognize the condition that exists in fact the wh not in law.

THE N. E. C. VOTE AGAIN.

Editor of The Call: I was much interested in Comrade I. M. Rubinow's analysis of the N. E. C, vote and consider his agitation of he "reform" it suggests quite timely Like friend Rubinow, I am also entirely satisfied with the results of the election. The new National Executive Committee, in so far as I am aware of the qualifications, the capacity of the elected Comrades to serve the hest interests of the movement, is as good as any combination of the several candidates

Don't miss the point!

I do not by any means agree with the views of each, nor even a majurity, as to their interpretations of the origin, solution, development, ethics, spirit, principles, policies and program of the Socialist movement But as far as I am aware (and extensive traveling through the country places me in a far better position to judge than the average party member from whose point of view I am re-sarding the point) they are all good "executives." I know most of the new committee personally; all but one. But I am "personally familiar" with the "executive ability" of less than 25 per cent of all those who were candidates. Of those elected four do not represent all of my views on essential points, and of these two stand for hardly any; but (and this is the point) the "executive ability" of one of these two last named is of such a superior quality that I should have superior quality that I should have voted for him in any event, regard-less of any personal prejudices. In short, without naming him, I have found him to be the type of man who seems literally to sense the "majority will" on every question within the movement and obeys regardless of his own views. Moreover, he "sticks to program" with an unflinching zeal that s marvelous, while at the same timeas an individual party member-fighting tooth and nail all the time to de-velop his personal views to be the dominant view of the majority. It folows, of course, that had I not known this I should have voted against one of the best executive committeemen in the party on "general principle."

The same can be said of the National Secretaryship.

I'm afraid this comment will grow too long for publication, so I'll stop with the susgestion alluded to by Comrade Rubinow. Isn't it time, in view of all Rubinow said, that we devise some more rational method of selecting executive officers, especially value of these lectures and here with it. ### THE LYCEUM COURSE.

Editor of The Call:

It does seem peculiar to me Comrades generally are quick to anything and everything that have in air of Socialism about them. when it comes to a legitimate pretion, the value of which must be parent to all, Comrades are slow to lend their support. I has mind now the Lyceum lecture run under the auspices of the tional Office of the Socialist party. only branch in Manhattan that he dertaken the course is Branch S. lecturers, the first of whom is C Edward Russell, are all well a and able exponents of scienticalism. Judging from the lectu jects which present Socialism in complete sequence down to the Morrow Lewis, it ought to be advantage to any Comrade (not any of sympathizers) to attend to the company of sympathizers) to attend to the company of sympathizers).

This time is especially aprel asmuch as contention and dispute of late been rife in the party, ture course of this kind and e recognized efficiency would be clarify matters considerably. So for the educational feature. in the party on "general principle."

The same can be said of the National Secretaryship.

Both Comrades are "Princes" and "Jimmy Higginses" as far as being Socialists goes. John Work's big majority over Comrade Bentall was dumainly to the fact that Comrade Work was "on the job" as acting National Secretary, and the membership did the "square thing" by giving him a "vote of confidence and approval" by simply saying "Work works well for the whole works, so let him work."

But how many of us really know today which of the two possesses the best all around qualifications for an "efficient" secretary." Mere honesty of purpose and personal integrity isn't enough at this stage. "Efficient" must go with it.

"The heroes of several Socialist plays are supine rebels overcome by fate. There are two broad fields of philosophy lying apart from each other; one is idealism, the other realism. Authors can much better be classed as idealists or realists than they can be as Socialists or bourgeoisie. The latter nomenclature may fit sociology, it does not apply to art. Idealists are those who insist that mind is everything; that there is no absolute reality. Realists accentuate the absolute, the real. They look nature in the face, and bow down to her laws no matter how severs they may be. Idealists neglect natures and truth for dreams of a perfect society; They find its realism take life as it is, and are
