SOCIAL DEMOCRATS TO FUSE

PLANS FOR A NEW DEMOCRATIC-POP-ULIST-"SOCIALIST" PARTY.

panelly's Own Papers Comes Out With Plan-Debs Will Approve-Social Denierats Run Amuck in Politics-Kangaroes to Be Shipped,

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., Nov. 25,-The wreck of the Populist party, which centred four years ago, left several housand homeless party members who ad wandered far in a vain endeavor to had wandered the in a value concerns to be a feel a resting place: Yesterday Ignatins Donnelly's paper, "The Representative," appeared, and in it was a long editorial signed by A. Twitchell, the assistant ditor of the paper. There is no doubt

Several prominent populists give their mlified approval to the plan. It was ficult to find a Social Democrat who known outside of the walls of his own home, but such as were seen declare that there is nothing to keep Bryan Demecrats, Populists, and Social Democrats the presidency concerned—Bryan, Debs and Barker. It is understood that Debs will work for fusion. "Die Warheit," a Social Democratic organ, is preparing How the Factory Inspectors Aided the for the work, and it is declared that nothing can now keep the three parties

The plan as outlined contempuates the throwing overboard of the ex-Socialist Labor Party men, as they proved them-selves hard to handle. It is also more than probable that the majority of the Social Democrats in Mass., will be left out, as they failed to make good their bost of a large vote.

The editorial on the subject in the "Representative," is here reproduced. HOW MAY REFORMERS WORK TOGETHER?

This is to-day a paramount issue be-fore the mind of every thoughful reformer, and its solution lies in being consistent with professions. Bryan was beaten because he was not

It was a ridiculous spectacle to see men holding views in all matters political local carinner, yet all insisting that they were Democrats. It was inconsistency that should bring even to the fice of a politician a blush. Bryan was milty of this inconsistency, and those of his reform followers who were hon-est, when they saw the company they getting into, turned tack and re pudialed such alliance.

This was the instake made by all the honest followers of Bryan. They should have declared that if Hill and

Cleveland were typical and representa tive Democrats, that they must be beneeforth known by some other name. They should have discarded the name Democrat and allied themselves Populists, Union Reform people and the Debs following and here are our rea sons for this assertion:

Populists, Social Democrats and Brymites are a unit in their support of and belief in majority rule. They all alike claim to favor such reforms as the mas sex want. These three reform elements in language more or less similar, have declared for such practical adoption of the principles of direct legislation as shall enget into law the will of the

The same reasoning can be used to spector, spector, the Bryan Democrats, Debs So. Spector, "At first I hardly knew what to do.

"At first I hardly knew what to do." dalists and Populists should be one on mestions of government money versis bankers' money, since all profess to le wiling to ar btrate.

In conclusion, it may be said that when all three of these great reform parties have agreed to submit to populrete the gist of the money question, and the extent to which we shall go in matters of public ownership, and have agreed upon a speedy and effective system of direct legislation that shall enact into law the final decision of a popular rote, we have pretty nearly reached a basis upon which all reforms may unite one common cause and one common

This fact alone, if all three of these factions were honest and consistent, should insure their united action.

Let us now look a step further for points on which these reformers agree.

Debs' followers favor public ownership of all public utilities, and meny things commonly regarded as private or indi-tional utilities. They believe that all boductive wealth should be owned in on or in other words they would production and distribution. Their clarations are very sweeping in these Notwithstanding their bends to such utilities or capital as the public may eject should be owned in This practically refers the whole question of public ownership to a majority of the amasses. Debs' folleads, but are willing to leave this ques-ton also to a majority rule.

Now come the Populists with their rublic mable. and for public ownership of public dities, but they favor private ownership of the little home, and such means of production and distribution as do not in likely to become subjects of modopoly, but, like the Debsites, they are willing to tread the path of public owner-

people and Populists in pretty close

Now, when we come to the Bryanites, most of them believe in municipal own-ership. A large number of reform Democrats now favor public ownership of railroads, telegraphs and telephones, but do not go as far on these lines as Populists; but, like Socialists and Populists, they, too, say they are willing to submit to majority rule; they champlon selfgovernment

Poplists most cease to kick against an advance along the line of public ownership, provided always that majority approve. We must cease to kick against our own medicine, the referendem and the Socialists must down off their high horse and submit to the same popular will.

Reformers must get together and work as a unit. Fusion of different parties with different platforms and different organizations is, and always must be,

But it seems to us that a few reform planks like the money plank and pub-lic ownership could be so worded that party under one name for the submis-We should all be willing to submit to uch steps toward reform as the masses will vote for. Let a popular vote determine whether we shall have the re-forms advocated by the Bryanites, Debsites or Populists.

CIGARMAKERS' STRIKE.

Manufacturers.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 23.-Believing it might be of interest to the readers of the DAILY PEOPLE. I herein give you a few extracts from a description of the late Clearmakers' strike in New York as told by a ember of one of the firms that is lved.

Among . ngs, he related as fol-lows: "I to you it was a hard summer or me. The head of the firm left for Europe just after the strike broke out. the management of the business was left to me. There were neverthe less many interesting features about the whole affair; one especially, which I will tell you of. "One day I was offered twenty-five or thirty-five men who would go to work provided they were furnished lodging within the factory. I told them that I did not care to go to the expense of buying cofs; because the strike might end at any time. They then offered to sleep by the beneres and floor if I would give them a job. After considering the matter, I put them to work.

"They were an industrious lot of fel-ows, working every night until 10 or 11 o'clock. Now, there is, in the State of New York, a law forbidding the lodging of employees within a factory. So the first thing I dil was to see the distriet factory inspector. I had no trouble to 'fix' him, and I went on undisturbed for a while, ered by some of the strikers. They would take positions in the windows of the buildings across the street, where by the aid of opera glasses, they could see everything that went on in our factory; especially at night.

"They reported the matter to their committee, and it reported us to the authorities at Allany.
"A few days later I received a telephone call, and was given the following message: "Don't let the men sleep in the factory to night."

"I knew at once what it meant; the The same reasoning can be used to message, of course, came from the infor them that night, for they would have quif their job right then and there. So I rented several rooms in the building adjoining ours, and arranged with the men to sleep there that night.

"I remained in the factory. The men quit work about 10 g'clock. I turned out the lights, led them down stairs to the basement, then up the rear way the court back of the factory, over into the building next door, and, after I had them safely in their rooms. I hastened back to my office and awaited further

"Presently there came a knock: I went t the door, and found two fac tory in pectors who had come from Al-bany. I asked them what they wanted, and one said: 'We have come to inspect vour factory.'

I said: Gentelman, do you not know that the laws read that you may in spect a factory at any reasonable hour. You do not call this time, reasonable

"His answer was: 'As a charge has been entered against you, we have a right to inspect, even at this hour."
"To my question: "And what is the mistaken, and would be only too glad to escort them through the building and convince them that the charge was without foundation.

"I took them through. They were much surprised to find no one there, and felt pretty sore. Filled with oaths against the strikers, they returned to

Albany. "The next night the men again slept in the factory, and I was not disturbed after that."

This same member of the firm also said, that during their strike, he was aphip as fast as the majority approve by proached by one of the strike commits referred non-vote. This willingness to less, who threatened him with a boycest arbitrate should certainly bring the Debs. He only laughed and said to the com-

THE DEBATE.

A PEN SKETCH THAT GIVES A STRIK-ING PICTURE.

The De Leon-Harriman Debate in New Haven Proved to Be From the Start an Ignominious Rout Both to the Intelligence and the Character of the "Forers From Within."

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 25. The Grand Opera House was to-night the center of attraction for a large crowd that gathered to listen to the debate on Trade Unionism from the Socialist standpoint and the Social Democratic standpoint. The occasion proved to be a treat, a rare treat, although it soon became evident to the audience that what they came for they did not get. They expected a debate. What took place can hardly be called a debate

Daniel De Leon opened, presenting the Socialist policy towards Trade Unionism. His thirty minutes were taken up with a cogent and coherent argument, clinched with illustrations taken from the official journal: of the pure and simple trades unions. He showed how essential economic organizations of labor (Trade Unions) were, so as to afford the working class something now, at least some-temporary relief in its struggles in the shop with the capitalist class. He proreeded to prove how the pure and simple Trailes Union movement wholly failed in this respect and only superintended the stendy decline of the working class, rendering the workers more and more abjectly miserable. He explained this phenomenon by a rapid sketch of of the history of Unionism in America, showing the Union had ceased to be a labor organization, but acted obedient e the dictates of the enpitalist class, or was a, to the capitalist, convenent engine whereby to stifle every throb of the rank and file for better economic conditions. The means by which he pure and simple union was thus preverted from its true purpose was the union placemen, the officers, generally known as labor fakirs or the Organized Scabbery, and fitly termed the "Labor Lieutenants of the Employer" have full swing, in scribed the experience made in trying to reform such organizations by the "boring from within" theory, and with graphic dustrations, each of which was a clincher, he demonstrated that "boring from within" was merely a blind for lying low, letting the "Labor Lieutenants of the Employer" have full swing, in other words, it amounted to a betrayal of the working class. In view of the Socialists had set up the Socialist Trade and Labor Alliance, This body was a gage of bartle issued to the Organized Scabbery. The Socialist Trace and Labor Alliance organized all the unorganized workers it could reach, and by its propaganda and conduct, al-

zavs enlightening the workers, would compel the pure and simple outposts of capi-tal to surrender. Those that did not surrender would be taken by assault. When Mr. Harriman rose to answer on the Social Democratic side, he-looked beaten. His thirty minutes' speech pected a very different sort of argument. Ignorant as he proved himself of the labor movement, he exidently had never paid attention to the trades union discussion hat has been going on in the labor press for now fully ten years. As "intellectual," he showed himself think it needless expenditure of time to consider the Trades Union question. He evidently had prepared a regular paste-board speech of the pure and sim-ple stamp, that admits in an abstract way the necessity of labor politics but claims that the Trades Union furnishes "something now." The presentation of the Socialist position evidently knocked his prepared "impromptu answer" into fragments, "Off and on dering his thirty minuntes' answer and his subsequent thirty minutes' rejoinder, fragments of this smashed speech came floating along making him look more and more ridicu-lons. The bulk of his time was taken the Organized Scabbery of the International Cigarmaker's Union against the Alliance. He clung to these like a ship-wrecked mariner to a spar, and tried every trick of the pulpiteer, the shyster the push-cart vender to befor the and the passecure velocities of the produced voluminous "documents" on the Davis affair, and mid contentions and distortions, attempted to have that large audience pass judgment upon documents that needed careful individual study. He had no argument; he ran away from the argument. Both his answer and rejoinder were a series of allegations, many of them contradictory.

When it was De Leon's turn to reply with twenty mintes and subsequently close with a ten minutes' rejoinder, there was no argument for him to debate on any further. His own argument stood untouched, he was master of the field. The chairman, Mr. Clegg, who is a student mittee-man: "Have you any influence

He answered that he thought he had. whereupon the firm member further told him: "I'll tell you wat I will do. You go back to your Union bring all your influence to hear, get your Union to in-stitute' a hoycott 'against me and then come back to me, and I will pres-ent you, or your Union, with a certified check for $1,000."

the property of the professional professional life should not be deceived, but should understand that the social economic sky capitalist looks upon the boycott as a is not laden with flattering promises for first-class adjectisement. first-class adpertisement, at Yale, when calling upon De Leon, with correct instinct, said, "Mr. De Leon will now rebut with twenty minutes." De Leon's two turus, after his opening, resembled the chase given by the cavalry of a victorious army to the enemy in wild flight. He picked up as many allegations as he had time to.

There were two incidents that were rather dramatic. One occurred when, in a flurry of histrionic indignation, Mr. Harriman turned to De Leon and asked: "How much did you get from Davis?" The audience, even the "claque" of In-ternational sick-and-death-benefit reactionists, felt shocked at such indecent conduct; the chairman could hardly restrain his indignation. He looked as the he expected to see De Leon fly across the stage at Harriman's throat. That did not happen. Instead, there was a matchless tableau of several seconds presented by the two men. De Leon, unmoved in his seat, covered Harriman with a fixed look of unspeakable contempt; while Harriman, correctly sizing up the expression on De Leon's face, looked the coward, who felt safe in his scurrility, due to the place he was in. but whose skin, nevertheless quivered under the lash of the cowhide, that he knew would have otherwise cut him

The second incident happened when the "claque" just referred to, and which was appliating and shouting for Mr. Harriman, even when he did nothing but hem and haw, tried to disconcert De Leon with continuous hisses. Stepping forward, and shaking his finger at the bunch, De Leon said: "You might as well know that I have faced worse mobs of labor fakirs than you! Your hisses will not affect me. I am not to-night addressing this comparatively small meeting only. I am addressing millions of workingmen. - This discussion is being taken down stenographically in full and will be published." A shiver was perceptible on that side of the house The petty thought of conceiving so im portant a discussion as one that could be dwarfed into the treatment accorded to hall meetings, had got a douche of cold water.

The "debate" presented an excellent picture. It brought out into strong relieg the manly attitude, the honest pur pose and the impregnable position of the Socialist Trades Union policy; and this was brought out all the stronger through the contrast offered by the Kangaroo-Social-Democratic policy. The latter proved itself a characteriess handof the Labor Lieutenants of the capitalist class, To

SOCIALISM IN COLUMBUS.

Dr. Gladden and His Student's League Arraigned,

A regular business and agitation meet ing of Section Columbus was held Sunday afternoon. Oto Stinehofff addressed the agitation meeting on the New Trades the changes of condition from ancient through to modern times, and clearly showed that the fakir union of the pres ent must give way to a union adapted to modern conditions. The address throughout showed that the speaker had given the subject much study. . His earnestness and eloquence throughout was highly pleasing, and to some extent a real surprise. The comrades here show no spirit of discouragement on account of the Debserie trying to mislead our vote, but on the contrary exhibit a new spirit of vigor, as all the force of plutocracy was used to promote the interest in the S. D. P., it must be clear that it was only a scheme for division which will prove ineffectual, for the Debs peopl already show a desire to get together, which will not be hard for the honest rank and file. The following resolution was adopted concerning a scheme of Dr. Washington Gladden, paster of the First Congregational church. The resolution, which is based on the following statement found in the "Post" of this city of the issue of the loth inst, explains itself Section Columbus, of the Socialis Labor Party, adopted the following re solutions at its meeting Sunday after Whereas, Dr. Gladden and others are to organize a student's league of Co-lumb us and vicinity, the primary objecof the league being to promote and establish better citizenship. As these students are gathered in Columbus from the various parts of the State and are expected to wield an influence in their future social life, it becomes a matter of interest to the proletarians of the State, whether the chains of slavery are to be tightened upon the wage-work ing people or broken as an effect of the feachings. The term good citizen and bad citizen is not expressive of any con dition of the individual. Fortunatel most of the people have arrived at a state of intelligence which enables them to recognize this law; but unfortunately there are few people who have the force of character to act upon lines that would render practical results to the people, a a body, by virtue of being possessed of this knowledge. We, therefore, resolve to disapprove of an organization for such purposes as those of the student's league, and insist that it is the duty of all interested to enter into a study of capitalism-the effect of machinery used to the aggrandisement of a few private individuals or whether this machinery is to be placed back in the custody of those who operate it and to whom it in a just nature of things belongs. This is the undivided attention of all who a LETTER OF ACCEPTANCE BY CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR.

TO THE SOCIALIST LABOR PARTY OF EVERETT.

Comrades!

In accepting the nomination as your can fill to be Rayer of our city, I fully realize the responsibility that rests upon me in so doing. I feel honored, and fully appreciate your confidence in placing me at the head of the municipal ticket of the only genuine workingmen's party in existence in this country, and I trust that I may merit a continuance of your confidence, and that this campaign may advance the cause in which we are joint-ly interested, and move the wage-workers of Everett one step nearer the goal of our ambition, the Co-operative Commonwealth. The capitalist class of our city with their middle class followers seem to be united this year, as but one candidate has as yet materialized, he having labored so faithfully in their fri-terests for the past year they dislike to make a change

With the Socialist Labor Party it is different, our conditions as wage-slaves have not changed, and it is necessary that we continue our skirmishes in this war against capitalism until a decisive "battle of the ballots" shall have wiped this obnoxious system out of existence.
To the workingmen of Everett I would say that I believe it is only lack of knowledge of your true position in this LOWELL, MASS., Nov 24.—It will be interesting to the readers of the DAILY PEOPLE, especially in Massachusetts, to get the correct return of the vote cast in the Spindle city (commonly called) for all candidates on the S. It is time the wage-workers of Everett should give a thought to THEIR material interests, and see how diametrically opposed are those of the capitalist class. Our literature has been distributed, from time to time, all over the city, in our endeavor to reach the intelligence of the working class, that they might learn all that we stand for and propose to do. Workingmen, I trust you will register your condemnation of present conditions with a class-conscious vote for the candidates of the Socialist Labor Party, each and every one a wage-worker and from such only can

A Tonsorial Artist is Drawn Into a Political Discussion, in the Course of Which He Admits the Hole That the Small

My harber nowadays wears a wocbegone expression. The complacent look, produced by thrift in business. coupled to an imaginative mind, has given place to a front of gloom and undefined hostility to things in general. This general disgruntledness, however, his a very specific and particular cause. It is inability to hang on in competition with the "big feller." while the exasper ning un-get-away-from-ableness of the matter, the continual butting of the head against the wall whichever way the pool man turns, consumes him with impotent

The conversation, at first dusultory, setled at last like a bee on a flower Conversation, which began with the customary comparison of notes on the weather, led easily to the weather on Louisvards of Paris, thence to Kruger's expected arrival at Marseilles, from that to the British-Boer War, Marseilles, therefrom to British imperialism, British imperialism to American imperialism, American imperialism to its companion and cause, the Trusts-from physical weather to social weather.

As we reached the Trusts, I espied a large and beautiful automobile go sniling past with great speed and case. This slight incident set in train a discity middle classes. Calling the barber's attention to it, I said: "What do you suppose will become of the horses now?"

"Doo'r know, sir: sausage, I guess," Calculating and chuckling off so much of a laugh as 1 deemed would repay barber for his witty attempt, I con tinged as he went on scraping:

And who will eat the sausage?"

"Workingmen."
"Yes." raid I "and also the middle class that the department saore which owns that "auto" is smashing down into the working class." , Mr. Barber started, "That's so, sir."

And," said I, "what's to become of the farmer who has been accustomed to making a great part of his living by raising these horses and producing hay, gorn, oats and straw for them?"

"Well, I don't see what he can do unless he gets work making the automo-

Not much. Machinery's got too per feet, and thrown too many men out of work to leave any place for the farmers. Did you read the report in the papers of Manhattan Elevated? No? that shows you how more work can be done with fewer men. That report says road's EARNINGS were $625,000 GREATER for the year ending Septemtheir OPERATING EXPENSES were over $90,000 LESS; which, being inter-preted, means, that 6.584,293 more passengers, and a slew more of freight were carried, while several hundred fewer "hands" did the job-or ticket-choppers, or miners in getting out coal, etc., etc. No, sir, your farmers will have to do something else. He can't get a job making automobiles."

The barber was puzzled. With a shrug of his shoulders, he ventured, however: "He'll have to raise cattle, I his shoulders, he ventured

But," I said "if more cattle are prodruced, won't the price of cattle and the farmer still be bad off?" But this time Mr. Barber felt "where m I at" like, but responded:

Well, that's so." "Besides." I went on, "Rockfeller" $50,000,000 cattle trust in Texas will knock 'em "sky-high in that line."

By now the Tonsorial artist was ex cited. In strong English he broke out "That's what's the matter. It's these big trusts that's ruining this country. The little farmer can't make a living and the men with a little business her in the city are going to the dog. I tell you this country is going to see a revolu-tion pretty soon, if things don't change, pretty soon, if things don't change Why," he went on, getting more and more excited, "right here in this block right on this side of the street six peo ple with a little business have had to close out since last summer." (The block in question is so short that a brisk seconds-showing how high the per centage of failures is.) He went pointing out block after block, with their numerous and increasing failures; and coming down to where the collar rubbed re'shoulder, he said: "Look at me I used to have plenty customers; now hardly anybody comes. I can hardly pay my expenses."

"Well." said I, "is anybody coming in their places?

"No, sir; they can't. The places are to let. They can't compete with the de-partment stores. The department stores are an outrage. They sell everything even ment, carriages, clothing, human hair goods (here was one bug under the restaurants, barber-shops (ah, still another bug) everything, sir!

ght to be a law passed against them." Well," I inquired, as, like a spluttering swimmer, I blew out of my mouth the lather that in his unusual excitement he had dropped, "we'l, how are you going to stop them. The big men, buying wholesale, can get his goods cheaper than the little men, and so can sell cheaper, can't he? and we are going to buy where we can get things the cheap-est, are n't we?—you included—and you can't make a law-to stop us from buy-ing of him."

" he said, "but we can pass a le that will make him pay a license for each separate business that he runs—one for meat, one for wagons, and so on. That way be'll have to sell his goods the same

o. sir: but-

"They can buy, say, a barrel of sugar for $5, where it costs a small man, say, "Yes, sir :but-

Tais staggered the tonsorial man, but he rallied finally with the statement that he would have a graduated income tax passed exempting the smaller incomes.

"But that would be unconstitutional." I said, and showed him how, when the thing was brought down to the last analysis, it would simply amount to a higher tax on each barrel of sugar for the large man than for the small man the tax rate for one man per barrel would not be the same for one man as for another, and as soon as you make a difference in the rate charged two or more people, there is no rule left, the rate can be anything for anybody-an-"Anyway." I said, "how are you going to get your law passed? Some say it must be settled by the State, some by the United States. I don't think that barber's brain ha stopped sizzling yet. Maybe it will do some good, maybe not. Anyway, he can't blame me if he doesn't know what to do.

The "victory" of the Social Democratic party has resulted in a wail of woe. There are not only two National Executive Committees, but there is also one that does not exist, and there are several others which are going to exist. The sorrowful scenes at the harmony gatherings in Boston and Chicago are tributary to this state of affairs. Much of the sorrow comes from the fact that the out-of-a-job ministers have taken posession of the center of the stage and hold it against all comers. Even the singing societies are not allowed to sing till they have learned some church songs. They have become religious organization and instead of the old songs of freedom the marching music, and the hymns of the working class, we shall hereafter listen to the inspiring gospel tunes as rendered by the different organization that once declared war on all churches. Truly, unity is real—it is earnest, and at, one for vaguing, and as a same have united for the grand object of making it unnecessary for the ministral said "that will not prevent tars to seek for work.

SOCIALIST ACTIVITY.

STALWARTS WAGING WAR IN ALL PARTS OF THE CITY.

In Washington and Connecticut the Fight Goes on-Replies Which Go Straight to the Point

Socialists all oven the country manifest unusual activity. Whoever throws down the gauntlet will assuredly be met. The two following articles show how unassailable the Socialist position is. The first is from Adam Marx, of New London, Conn. The second is from William McCormick of Fairhaven, Wash. The letter and editorial, to which our men replied, are given in full. To the Editor of the "Telegraph:"

Sir-In your issue of to-day appeared a letter from one of your correspondents entitled "Is Contradictory?" in which an attempt is made to discredit the the United States. Finally, statement that general prosperity pre-you get your law up to the House of statement that general prosperity pre-Representatives, and they pass it: then vials in our land. Before attempting any refutation of certain statements that makes it necessary to go back to made in the letter, allow me to congratulate you on your eminently felicitous punctuation of the title to the letter. I notice with pleasure that you prefer at interrogation mark after the title Contradictory?' instead of a period, instead of a period, and I therefore infer that your esteemed staff think the contents of the letter to question.

In the first place I suspect that the letter came from the pen of some dis-contented socialist-a class which, fortunately for our land numbers but comof our seventy-six millions of population. The advocate of socialism are zealots in the superlative degree, and the fundamental tener of their belief is discontentment of things in general and of governments in partichlar. A blind zeal for their hobby has eaten them up, and consequently person whose mind is unafterably a person whose mind is unafter biased in but one direction ought to judge of matters which ife wholly without the range of his limited vision. To say that Your factories are closing down, or run on short time and reducing wages every day, is as transparently false and shallow as hardly to merit a refutation. The correspondent who writes such stuff is guilty of one of two charges; either he is wholly ignorant of commercial reports, or because of an inordinate desire to win converts to his theory of discontentment, willfully faisireports of the last two or three years will disclose to an unprejudiced mind but, on the contrary, having been run-ning full time and over-time and still are unable to supply their orders. wheels go round.' In referring to the prosperity of our own thriving city, let me remind your correspondent that only a day or two ago the Eastern Shio Building company advertised for one hundred men at once with a possible increase to six hundred in the near future. Does such a con-dition of affairs look like a general lack of prosperity? In this connection it may be well to suggest a problem for our friend, the as it is to-day, for fifty of the men to control the goods of the remaining fifty.

That socialism breeds discontent is not to be denied, for it proves to the work-ingmen that under our present system. i. e., Capitalism, they are exploited of over four-fifths of their products. It is human nature that when one scious of the fact that he is taken advantage of by a class, to despise and be discontented until he has succeeded in righting the wrong that he suffers

That the working people are receiving to-day a smaller portion of the wealth any one who has read the United States census, as the following will show:

In 1850 the wealth owned by capital ists was $8,000,000,000; the per of wealth produced as wages was 6214 and the per cent, of wealth produced taken as profit was 371, per cent. In 1860 the wealth owned by capital-ists was $16,000,000,000; the per cent.

Wages nave not fluctuated, but in-creased 6 45-100 per cent, from 1890 to the present day according to the report of the last United States census, and mmodities have advanced from 20 to 100 per cent. According to our govern report we exported, last year $1,200,000,000 worth of merchandise other countries. The Brst nine month of this present year we exported $600,000,000 worth of merchandise, and at the same estimate for the remaining three months the figures will go up to $800,000,000, and it can therefore plainly seen that the exports for ear will at least be $400,000,000 less than the year before, lows that if we manufactured the same amount of goods this year as last, and with the expots falling off, manufacturers are suffering from a surplus. I wil only recite a few instances where wages have been reduced and shope down, which is a few reports gathered from our public press. NEW HAVEN, Conn .- "The Street Railway company reduced the wages of motormen and conductors 20 per cent. beginning the 7th of November, 1900.

STEUBENILLE, Ohio .- "The man agement of the National Steel Com pany. Mingo Junction plant, to-day offered the men a new scale of wages. that makes reductions in the existing rates from 20 to 61 per cent. 8th of November, 1900.

NEW LONDON, Conn.-"One hun dred and fifty longshoremen have been on a strike for over a month, whose de cents per hour overtime, and yet are unable to force the Central Vermont to concede to their demands."

The instances of ware reductions and lay-off within the last three years, if put in print, would take more space than the average newspaper could contain.

In reply to "A Contributor's" boast of the men wanted by the Eastern Ship building company, I can say that I an personally acquainted with at least a half dozen men who responded to the advertisement and were unable to pro cure work from this company; beside the few men that are in their employ have suffered numerous wage reduc-tions during the last three months.

"THE BLIGHT OF SOCIALISM."

"Now that the general elections are over and the numerous soreheads are beginning to heal, public attention is turning to the municipal empaign. The issues will be almost as many as the candidates. These can best be cussed as they arise. But there is one general question which is worthy of ome attention now. It is predicted place a complete ticket in the field. Its chances of success may be slim, but the lovers of stable, rational government cannot afford to ignore any for man, however weak, if the triumph of

Of that we say nothing at present. But th success of the party does bring disaster as the writer can testify from personal observation.

Representatives of the many shoe-manufacturing concerns report an endless series of gibes and taunts at their city wherever they go. Jobbers and wholesalers are shy of placing orders in a city where so revolutionary a movement is in progress In good times the city ships some cases of shoes per week. At last acounts the output has fallen to about 1,000 cases. This was partly due to the season but more to distrust. Real estate values have sunk out of sight. THE SOCIALISM OF THE S. D. P. NOT THE REAL THING.

Editor "Herald":-- In the "Herald" of November 9, the article "The Blight of Socialism," is the usual, Appleal and up o the present, never failing argument that Capitalism is always compelled to use-deception.

Deception is the stronghold of Militant Capitalism, which has such a "corner" on it that Militant Socialism is compelled to use the truth, or nothing.

The Militant Socialist recognizes in the Militant Capitalist a logical, worthy, unscrupulous foe in the political and economic arenas, because Militant Ca-pitalism is the political expression of the economic interests of the Capitalist thing they work for. The militant S resources of nature to the exclusion of the Working Class, and the means of production and distribution through the improper trend of industrial development, fostered by a wrong political and educational system, that put the law making power into their hands, by virtne of which they now assume that they "fill the dinner pails" of the Working Class; in fact, allow them to live. While Militant Socialista is the political expression of the economic interests of the Working Class, whose object is to recover their common interest in the re-sources of nature, (their birthright, of which they have been despoiled), and the means of production and distribution from which they were excluded by development, fostered by the same wrong political and educational system that put those same things, and the lawmaking power to protect them, into the hands of the capitalists who do nothing for the Working Class except rob them Militant Capitalism has attained his growth, almost reached the zenith of

Mr. Bryan tried to stop his unward broader (so that the Working Class some other things that he could not make clear to anybody, not even him self. So Bryan was turned down to the great glee of the Militant Socialist Now, there is nothing to hinder Capitalism from reaching his logical height and normal end. Militant Socialism, as yet, is just a boy who has sense enough to know that the fellow who steals his best hat and gives him a paper cap in place of it is no friend of his; he knows place of it is no friend of his; he knows the difference between the foul tongue, empty head, misshapen body, miserable shack and "full (?) dinner pail" that Capitalism gives for labor, and the clean tongue, intellectual brow, well developed body, handsome home and the good things of life that Socialism can and peace between two class-conscious Militants whose economic interests are op-posed to each other. Therefore the posed to each other. Therefore the article in question is logical and fully in line with what Militant Socialism expects from Militant Capitalism to the end of the last battle between them.

The Socialist Labor Party of the United States is the clearest cut, un-compromising organization of Militant Socialists on earth, and that party only cast, 49 votes in Haverhill in this last election. It was not the one that caused "the blight of Socialism" (?) in that town consequently it did not fall to our lot to take you to task on the question. But the article put a certain con glomeration of nominal Anti-Militant "start a colony," "teach what Socialism is," "appeal to reason," (?), "we must have a Moses," "eatch the milionaires," (at Delmonico dinners), lionaires," (at Delmonico dinners), "catch the farmers," "catch the editors," "catch the preachers," "catch the law yers," "catch the doctors," "be broad," yers. liberal enough to eatch the man, -who don't want any of it. get organized labor," "bore from with-in," "carry the crook," "pat the labor fakir on the back," "win the wardheeler from the beer and Capitalism buys for him," "join any old thing that is prominent," "appeal to entiment; bread and butter does not nterest people," "the Working Class interest people." interest people." "the Working Class has not the intelligence," "you have to teach them A. R. C first," "short cut," "get there quick," "half a loaf is better than no bread," "get something now," "government ownership," "New Zealand bas it," "municipal ownership," "Classical bas it," "sneak easy," "turn "Classical bas it," "sneak easy," "turn 'Glasgow has it." "speak easy," the other cheek," "golden rule," cause Christ was a Socialist." "bec and business," "applied Christianity, "he is coming our way," "goo goo. Social ist." "we must get the middle class to help us," plagiarizing, platform imitating, tactic stealing, "brotherly love," "disuniting," "why don't you join us," "harmonious," "disorganizing," brotherly love. "harmonizing." half-baked dough-head-ed freaks known as the Social Demoeratic party, and to Militant Socialists "Debserie" on the defensive.

It is the defense made in the Herald, November 12, by Mr. D. Burgess that the Militant Socialists are concerned with. The gist of it is: "Would a Socialist administration of the city governprent of Fairhaven, which would pre serve, protect a nd defend the interests of all the people then be harmful? Which-means: "Is there anything in that o scare your profit-mongering tax payers?" "What are you afraid of?" "I crs? you will consult with us and have a gentleman's agreement the same as Mr. Mellen and Mr. Hill did, you will find that cur ideas are very much more similar that we supposed." *

"There are a great many workingmen in Fairhaven who are getting their eyes opened a little bit, they will become militant and join the Socialist Labor Party unless we can side track them on the scheme to 'protect' and defend the interests of all the people.'

Workingmen: a word with all of you who have made a start toward emanci pating yourselves and the working class to which you belong from wage slavery by studying Socialism. Keep clear of that S. D. P. trap with its babble about "interests of all the people." The interests of middle class profit mongering tax payers are not your interests. You have nothing but your labor power to depend upon. The only polical interest that you have is to about an industrial condition that will give you the full value of that labor power for yourself. Your own common sense tells you that every other work ing man wants the same, as soon as it appears possible for him to get it, consequently your interests and his are identical. On this ground the interests of all wage earners are the same; their ignorance of this fact is the only proj of capitalism; remove the ignorance of the working class and capitalism comes down wit' a crash. Something must take its place. That some thing is the Co-operative Commonwealth that will be established by the working class in the interests of the people who will work for every thing they get and get every Class, who have gained control of the cialists that have been coming down the line on this proposition for sixty years. bers; they have been honest to them selves, true to their trust, refusing all compromises, moving steadily onward until now they are united under the arm and the hamme of the Socialist Labor Party, where they are now waging relentless war upon anything and everything that is against he interest of the working class.

The militant Socialists denounce the Social Democratic party as an enemy the working class, and the man who votes that ticket does not know what class-consciousness means, or he doesn't want to know. Workingmen, I ask you once more to study this matter carefu ly, investigate and you will find that the Socialist Labor Party is the only politocal organization fit for a wage earner to beiong to. Live the Revolution.

WM. McCORMICK.

"Free Society." an anarchist publication in an account of an anarchist mosting held in San Francisco says that the Social Democrats united with the anarchists to make the meeting a success. Among the speakers was the editor of the Social Democrat "Tageblatt." This speaks volumes for the condition of affairs in that city, and also for the makeup of the crowd which purports to advance the cause of the working class. At all times the anarchists bave been a drug when permitted to participate in the work of a party. It is only when they are driven out that they become harmless. To work with them you must be of them. That the Social Democrats are of them is evident from the fact that they were jointly responsible for the meeting held. This is not the first time that this has occurred. It will probably not be the last. The Chicago paper that supports the Social Democracy violently attacks the anarchists. Can it be that will give for labor. Socialism will grow by attacks the anarchists. Can it be that to a full, overpowering manhood that a new executive committee is in process will bury Capitalism. There can be no lof foundation?

In a word a turning and twisting, prompted no doubt on the part of some by a desire to have harmony and unity. Then comrade Arnaelsteen's turn to speak had come. Here the WEEK-LY PEOPLE'S report is incorrect. In very concise but unmistakable language he was the first who defended the Guesde motion, and opposed the Kautsky motion. But those "great, wise men" of the international movement did not think worth their while to listen to our comrade who was not yet a leading light, and Jaures, Auer and Adler began to entertain each other so audibly that Armaelsteen stopped speaking, saying to the chairman that he would wait till these gentlemen got through. Jaures tried to excuse himself by saying he was translating Arnaelsteen's speech to Auer, which was false. After this incident our comrade from Los Angeles could conclude his remarks in quietude. I then spied Sanial in the crowd, and asked him to force his way through, as I wanted to inform him of what had transpired. He did so and got registered to speak. He was listened to by the large audience respectfully, only Adler and Jaures were translating what he said to Aucr and commenting on it When he expressed his actonishment regarding the attitude of the revolutionary Kautsky, Adler who claims in the "Neue Zeit" he was opposed to the Kautsky motion,-but did not say a word against

A REAL CONVENTION.

Illinois Workers Place Absolute Power in the Hands of Their Officers.

KEWANEE, ILL., Nov. 22.-The committee on constitution and platform of the Illinois State Federation of Labor will recommend several important changes in the constitution of the body. The principal change is in regard to the levying of privileges and the placing of business firms and employes on what is known as the unfair list. The committee will recommend that wherever there are difficulties between the emp'oyers and the employes or a grievance against a business the same course shall be pursued as that laid down in the laws of the American Federation of Labor; it shall first go back to the executive board for consideration, and be reported back with a recommendation by that committee, as that will give time for delays. The officers claim that they have sometimes been pushed aside by the rank and file, and that they have thus lost many good things. The reform will do away tunists arguments were, that the case of with all this.

The action of the committee is in line with the annual address and recommendation of President McLean. He said the boycott, which is the weapon of organized workingmen, has into disrepute na l'ost power for the reason, that it has been used indiscriminately, often without the proper investigation, and has for that reason become, in many cases, a farce. He cited an instance in his honie city-Springfield- where all the laundries and meat markets were on the un fair list at 'he same time. Carrying such" a boycott to its logical conclusion would have meant dirty linen and a vegetarian diet for all the trade unionists of Spring-

Then there was the boycotting of each registers, automobiles, etc. Things that the working class never uses. Much indignation has been stirred up against the local Socialist Labor Party men because of their exposing the farce of boycotting. It was ironically suggested by one S. L. P. man that the A. F. of L. boycott the importation of noblemen, so many workingmen's daughters purchase them. For this reason the trades unionists are trying to desert their boycott position.

President McLean in his annual alrecommened that the office of organizer be included with that of see retary. Other recommendations that the office of trensurer be created that the office of trensurer and that the a salary of $60 a year and that the ond be fixed at $1,000; that the officer and three elective members shall constitute an executive board and that the compensation be fixed at $3 a day and xpenses; that the executive board be given power to remove any officer for that the federation initiation fee be made $5 uniform; that the time holding the annual conventions be changed to the first Tuesday in October: that the organization use its best efforts to have the Case garnishment law repealed.

is probable that the committee on constitution will recommend that the salaries of the president, secretary and treasurer be made nominal and that the executive board be empowered to employ organizers and fix their compen-sation whenever they may be needed. Thus complete power is given into the hands of the committee and no one can stand against them.

Mayor Whiffen welcomed the dele-gates on behalf of the city, and Presi-dent Collins of the Trade and Labor Assembly sopke for organized labor. Most of the afternoon session was tak en up with talks regarding the power of the union label in furthering the cause of trades unionism. H. J. Skellington, agent of the of the Boot and union spoke at some length. He is the paid agent of a well known shoe firm, and makes a specialty of attending conventions to drum up trade for the firm. E. C. Havens spoke wages paid by Hall and Company whose employees are now on strike, were ninety cents a day for ten hours' work. The federations pledged its moral support and requested amiliated bodies to give all the financial assistance possible Secretary Boyer gave some interesting figures regarding the broommakers. He said 117 factories are now using the union label, but notwithstanding the fact about two-thirds of the brooms are made in prisons and reformatories. John Dollard of Chicago introduced resolution demanding that all school books shall bear the union label and providing that organizations throughout the State demand union-made books during the bolidays.

PURE AND SIMPLE UNIONS.

Southern Capitalists Drive Them to the Wall in South Carolina.

BURLINGTON, N. C., Nov. 22 .- The biggest cotton-mill strike in the history of the South is practically at an end. Here and in Alamance County, which is the leading cotton-mill county of the South, work is being resumed in twentyodd mills, the operatives of which went on strike two months ago.

This means the complete defeat of the pure and simple tactics of the labor organization conducting the strike. The complete failure of the pure and simple methods is sure to have great effect upon the working class movement of the South. In order to comprehend how utter has been the pure and simple defeat it is but necessary to state that the workers have disbanded their local and have accepted the ultimatum of the mill-owners that no member of any labor organization shall have employment on ony terms.

Between 4,000 and 5,000 operatives have been idle in this county for two months, and all but three of the twentyodd mills have been cither closed or machinery. The surrender of the operatives is largely due to their eviction last week from the dwelling-houses owned by the mill companies, which they had been suffered to occupy up to that time. Many could not procure other houses, and mos of them could not have paid rent if other cottages had been available.

The strike grew out of a demand for he discharge of an overseer in one of the Haw River mills (who, the opera tives declared, was cruel to female ope ratives, and generally obnoxious). The demand developed the fact that a local labor union had been recently organized among the energtives. When the mill authorities refused to comply with the demand, a strike was ordered at this Company's plant. Next day at the pathetic strike. In several other mills the operatives followed, the idea being labor union. In a short time a majority of the mills in the county were so baily crippled that they virtually suspended that a lockout should be declared against all union labor. Although near-ly all the mills own the dwelling occupied by their operatives, the union men continued to occupy them rent free, as usual, Finally notices were posted or dering them to vacate, and last week three weeks after the date set for the cacating), the sheriff evicted large num-ers of families. The national organization, under whose jurisdiction these local unions were formed, voluntarily came to the assistance of the strikers and furnished much of the provisions dealt out during the last few weeks. The task of maintainlug so many persons proved, however, too much of a strain.

So there are no labor unions in Butlington or in Alamance County to-day, and the abandonment is such a blow at the plans of "organized labor" leaders that it is doubtful whether it will ever be overcome.

after years of repeated failures, have been made to "organize" Southern cotton-mill operatives. The "organizers have been Northern union men chiefly who not only were sent out by North ern mill workers, but they have had the sympathy and material assistance of Northern cotton-mill owners, also, who are interested in the result. Northe fact that one of the most formidable advantages over them possessed by Southern cotton manufacturers is the cheaper labor employed, its contented condition heretofore, and freedom from 'strikes" and all the labor troubles. But organizers have had a hard time until very recently when unions began springing up in various quarters in North Carolina. At Greensboro the "Proximity" roll (owned by a New Yorker who moved his business South to get rid of labor troubles), locked out ence of the union was discovered. It several country mill communities the laor "organizers" were spotted and inbefore they could do thy work.

-Hundreds of the old operatives will rave to move, as the mills here will not now have room for all the ex-union operatives. The mill efficials induced several hundred non-union hands to take employment during the strike, and will not desert these now. Those left out will have to, wherever they go in securing work, hire only as "non-union hands.

The number of men employed on municinal works has been greatly reduced, as there is a great deal of work to be done and the mere campaign material has to be gotten out of the way. In Brooklyn something like one hundred less men are now doing more work than was done before election. In New York it is the same way. Those who remain simply have to work harder in order to complete n stipulated amount for the season, and at the same time allow for the expense incident to misleading a few voters into the belief that they had a job. It is, o course, very hard, and it is of course eriminal, but the men voted for it, and they most assuredly have succeeded in

THE GIGARMAKERS.

How the Fakirs Managed to Keep the Strikers Out So Long.

It probably seems inexplicable how the leaders of the Cigarmaker's International Union managed to keep such a large body of striking men and women together for a period of nearly eight months with a comparatively very small number of desertions. Those not familiar with the cigar-industry might think that the cigarmakers were so prosperous during the last four months preceding the strike that they were in a position to without work for an indefinite time; others might believe that the support to the strikers was so generous that they didn't need to work at all; but the fact is entirely different

When the strike broke out, the fakirs sent out a war-cry throughout the country to all organizations affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, and especially to the eigarmakers of the United States and Canada, that a great battle was on in New York, and victory means final emancipation of labor in victory as the sun shines. Victory could only occur if the necessary ammunition will be amply supplied. That meant money, and money they wanted. It did not take long, when through the appeal that final emancipation of labor and abolition of wage-slavery was in sight, money was commencing to pour in, and thousands of dollars were given.

Of the 6,000 people out on strike and lock-out less than 10 per cent were men who being in such a small non-rive did not amount to anything with the fakirs. Of the women involved about 25 per cent were young girls, only a short time in the trade, whose earnings did not average more than $4 or $5 per week; about 45 per cent were married women whose husbands found employment elsewhere and while working in the factory had to keep a servant girl home for the children, and their net profit from work could therefore not amount to more than possible, and as they are in the business for what there is in it, they wanted to bring things to a successful issue, of course for themselves.

By assisting the strikers with 33 and promiting to raise it to $4, they were able to get a controlling majority of about 70 per cent of the strikers. These consisted of girls in short shiels and married women, while the men, especially the packers, having to support their families had to content themselves with the same amount.

Judge briedman's sweeping, injunction forbidding the leaders to pay out benefit to the strikers was a good pretext for them to drag all the girls in the union. It was explained to them at their respective shop-meeting that this injunction was only for non-members, and if they wanted to be paid their benefits, they would have to join the union. Under existing circumstances there was nothing left for the girls but to do as they told them, and pay back in initiation fees and dues 80 cents weekly. As previously explained, the girls were their trump-card, and so they succeeded in keeping them out amusing and deceiving them with different fakes until the colder season started to set in.

The men who soon became aware of the fact that they were merely victims nice of the women, were utterly helpan opinion or ask a question, he was denounced as a traitor, hireling of the manufacturers, and a scab, while the girls were flattered and hailed as the eroes of the grand battle;

The hardest thing the takirs had to deal with was probably the invention of new stories for every meeting; in this respect, it seems, the Bennett excelled them all. Once in the order of his speech while denouncing the Italian girls for taking the striker's places, he enjoined all the women not to patronize any Italians, especially the barbers and bootblacks. This was the stuff they used for over seven months, and if the men complained that their interest was they could not support their families on they were fighting for, they were simply bodily hurt, as was the case of a packer by the name of Adolph Schoenfeld, of 729 E. Ninth street. That packer who was out on strike for several months, and whose wife get confined, had the andacity to go to the firm of Maroushek. Rosenstein & Co. to ask for assistance. t was no easy matter to persuade those haritable fakirs to help that poor fellow in his distress, as he was merely a packer; at last they proved their generosity by giving him a check for $5. ffer Schoenfeld refused; and when, after having been abused in a most shameful manner, he tried to explain to them his manner, he tried to explain to them his critical position, he was struck in the face by the noble Mr. Maroushek and were it not for the interference of Harry Krenter, president of the packer's union tie would have been thrown down two flight of staifs and probably broken his neck. Charges were brought against Maroushek, but when it came before the dvisory board Rosenstein, the chairman of that body, explained to the delegates how that Schoenfeld was inopportune to Mr. Maroushek who was just preparing his stumping speeches for Hall, and the charges were dismissed as being without foundation.

This is one of the many cases that happened during that strike. A CIGARMAKER

Factors Which Contributed Towards The Social Revolution.

eighteenth century the people were on the whole better off, their wages would buy them more and better food and raiment than for two centuries before. Consequently the pressure being sudden was more severely felt, and more vigorously resisted than it is to-day. The workers saw that the unregulated introduction of machines meant for them ruin; as Sir James Steuart, the famous economist, plainly stated it must, ten years before the publication of the "Werlth of Na-They, therefore, in the first place attacked the machines themselves; and bands of workpeople under the name of Luddites destroyed machinery in many industrial centers, with the that thus they were striking heavy blows' their adversaries were not the inert machines, which only produced more wealth at the cost of less and less expenditure of human labor, but the class appropriation of these improvements which gave laborers, owing to competition among themselves for employment, a less and less proportionate share of the wealth created.

For the cheapening of the products did not benefit the workers as a class. only enabled them to take a lower average wage in times of pressure without abs lute starvation: whilst the uncertainty arising from constant improvements and the competition of their own families rendered their position even worse than the mere amount of wages for long hours and excessive overwork would betoken. Thus the very circumstances which should have bettered their condition and rendered their life more casy, actually pressed them down to a lower standard of existence.

Not until 1802 was any step taken to recognize even that children were over worked, and the Act then passed was wholly abortive. In 1814 the capitalist class even succeeded in removing the last vestige of the old restrictions, notwith standing the overwhelming array of peti tions from the workers against such action. At this time it must be remembered that all combinations among the workers to raise their wages, or to strike for any reason whatsoever, were illegal. Soon afterwards the great war cann to an end which had so much strengthened the power of the landowners, farmers and capitalists at the expense of the people; and with its termination, and the consequent collapse of the fictitious prosperity created for certain classes, carse i period of even greater pressure on the people. From 1817 to 1848 was therefore one of almost continuous torreoil. The middle class were striving to secure their complete control over the House of Commons by a limited extension of the suffrage, and a disfranchisement of rot-ten boroughs; the wage workers were bining in all directions to obtain the suffrage for their class, but also to relieve hemselves from the hideous economical injustice they suffered under. Riots in the towns and rick-burnings in the coun-

The time of the fiercest struggle was shortly after the enaction of the Reform Bill of 1832. Then the effect of the New Poor Law, the constant immigration from Ireland owing to economical causes due to landlord oppression, and the continuous operation of capitalism, produced such distress that from 1835 to 1842 the country was described by a careful foreign ob server as in a state of percument revolt. Now it was that a portion of the middlecause with the workclass made common ers in their agitation; that the trade unionists free to combine since 1824, acted in concert to a great extent the rank and file of laborers; and that utopian Socialism, in the schemes for the nationalization of the land, inherited from Spence and others, as well as Robert Owen's plans of co operation, began to be recognized as a definite school. The Trade Unionists at this time were the advance guard of the working class, party; and although, early in the day the sense of superiority to the unskilled workers began to show itself among the members, much of the success which was obtained could never have been got action and enforcement of Factory Acts. in favor of the restriction of the labor of women and children within more ressonable limits as to the number of hours worked, the rights of free meeting and a free press, were obtained owing in a large part to the steady organized support given by the Trade Unionists to these measures. In the Chartist agitation also, which was a decided movement of the proletariat against the landlord and capitalist class, many Trade took an active share, as also in the serious uprisings which occurred in Wales. Manchester, Birmingham, Nottingham

But for the counter-agitation gotten up by the capitalists in favor of Trade in corn it is even possible that the Chartists and Socialists might have schieved, at any rate, a temporary sucwas, the Corn Law League, drawing the people off on a false scent-for all can see nowadays that cheap food meent little more than increased profits for the capitalist class—the leaders were left almost without followers; and though in 1848 the renewed stir on the Continent of Europe gave the workers in England every encouragement and au exceptional opportunity, they failed to resuscitate the energetic movement of 1842. In fact, almost the only great result of all the long series of agitations for the benefit of the workers was the final settlement and consolidation in 1852 of the Factory Act of 1847. But 1848 on the Continent of Europe was a fur more important date than in d England. Then first, it may be said, since Baboent's conspiracy in 1796— t for the "Days of July" in 1830 in Paris or the outbreak at Lyons in 1834 were comparatively triflag—did the proletar-

00000000000000000000000 During the first three-quarters of the | int again show that it had interests which were not only not in accord with, but diametrically hostile to the interests of the middle class. All over Europe scientific, as distinguished from mere utopian, Speiglism new begun to be felt be ence. The famous Communist Manifesto of Marx and Engels which first formulated is a distinct shape the great truth of the inevitable struggle of classes as long as classes exist, the agitations of Blanqui and the theories of Louis Blanc, Ledru Rollin, etc., all pointed to an international combination of the class which should have a far wider nobler and more beneficial influence than endeavors however glorious, for mere national independence. It was Socialism as an organized force based upon the sure ground of science and political economy which frightened the statermen of all countries far more than any idea of mere national movements is which class graduations would still be

THE BELGIAN EXCUSE.

Of deep interest is the Brussels corre spondence, published in our last Saturday's issue, from Lucien Sanial, the chairman of the Socialist Labor Party delegation to the late International Congress held in Paris. The explanations, or excuses, that he says are advanced by the leading men among the Belgian delegation for the support that they gave to the so-called "Kautsky Resolution"-a resolution that, abandoning the principle of the class struggle, approves the acceptance of political jobs at the hands of capitalist governments-may eventually be serviceable to understand the course of events in Europe, possibly also to forsee them.

The explanations or excuses amount to this:

"The Socialist movement in Belgium is making rapid progress; already its voting strength runs up into the hundreds of thousands; but its progress is hampered. so seriously hampered, that it may be held back, tied hand and foot. What hampers it is the 'plural' system of vot-By this system the majority that the class could wield is hatd down to a minority: the property-holding minority boosting itself into a majority by the multiplication of votes in one hand. This cannot be changed without the 'plural' system of yoting is first abolished. To abolish it, the Cabinet must be taken from the Clericals and the upper plutocratic parties. This end can be accomplished only by an alliance with the middle class. Therefore it was imperative to vote against the Guesde Resolution, to vote against the Guesde Resolution, the effect of which, however unquestionsound otherwise, would be to interclet alliances with the bourgeoisie, and it became imperative to support the Kautsky Resolution, the effect of which to approve of such alliquees."

Whatever this reasoning may be. It is the reverse of state-manship, above all on the lips of a Belgian representative of a revolutionary movement, the working class, the Socialist movement, Surely the abolition of the "plural" system of voting is not the ultimate aim with Belgian Socialists; it is only a means to an end. The end, the ultimate aim, with them, is the overthrow of the existing monarchic form and capitalist system of government in Belgium, and its ibstitution with the Socialist Republic. In short, the aim is the Social Revolution in Belgium. No act. that, while promoting this end with one hand, simultaneously thrusts a spoke into its wheel with the other, is an act of statesmanship. Such a suicklal policy is the policy that guided the Belgian delegation in Paris.

The small territory of Belgium borders on two powerful neighbors,--Germany and France. Either, in capitalist hands, could and certainly would at any moment put an extinguisher to a revolution in Belgium that would threaten their ruling class, "The backward political state of Germany, even more backward than that of Belgium, renders the German Government inaccessible to changes that would eliminate the Empire from the list of enemies. Not so with France. There the advanced political development renders the French Government accessible to influences that might at the very least palsy the Republic's hand in an attempted hostile stroke. The cue of the Belgian Socialist statesman is to aid with all his might the preservation of the purity and revolutionary spirit of the Socialist Movement in France, to resist with very effort two this year. More may become neceswithin bim, and all the forces he can set sary. However many the occasion may in play, every step that; by the abandonment of principle, opens the doors to the demoralization of the Socialist taild. The game will be well worth the forces, and strengthens the arm of the | candle to the buccaneer class that now capitalist class in the chicane policy of runs the Republican and that may get emasculating, through corruption, the uprising of the class-conscious working class and its onward march to victory.

the inglorious Kautsky Resolution failed in this. By withholding its uncomprom ising condemnation of Millerand's acceptance of a portofolio in the French Cabinet; by, thereby, at least seeming to wink at Millerand's infamous conduct in the Cabinet: above all, by denying the principle of the class struggle through a throretic and quibbling approval of the acceptance of political jobs at the hands of capitalist governments;-by this act the Belgian delegation played directly into the hands of the political policy o capitalist France, and thus strengthened the arm of this neighboring enemy against themselves and their movement at home.

Whichever way the conduct of those is viewed who stood by the Kautsky Resolution, it leaves them in unenviable light Like the Furies that of old purmed the evil doers, this resolution will ever return to plague its sponsors. As time recedes, the delegations of America. France and Ireland, together with the other few scattering votes that stood out firm against the Resolution, will shine with increasing brilliancy, and point the path that those who slipped may return to.

BRYANISM AND ITS ANNEXES TO STAY-FOR A WHILE.

To the intellectual featherweights and political pundits generally there is much food for reflection in the following post-election observation by the Cleveland,

O., "Leader": "If the anti-Bryan and conservative Democrats, such as Whitney, Clevelan Fairehild, Dickinson and Carlisle, could carry out their reported plans for a re organization of the Democratic party or the lines which they must insist upon it they are to take part in its management and support its candidates, the immedi ate outcome would probably be the trans Democratic organization to the ists. The Socialist vote would increase at once so fast that it might have to be reckoned with as a great force in pol-

It already happened, it was in Minnesota, that on a certain occasion the Democratic party was so thoroughly thrashed that it cared not to set up a ticket when the next campaign came along. A. Democratic ticket, neverthe less, was set up, but not by the Democrats. It was set up by the Republicans. A "Labor party," a crasy thing that had sprung up as a dying echo of the George movement in this city, disquieted the Republicans, Moreover, the People's party was casting its shadows ahead, and disquieting the Republicans still more. These feared that the turgid language of populism w strengthen the "Labor" party; they justly apprehended that the two might coalesce, an apprehension that was verified; and they calculated that, with the Democratic party out of the way, all too, along these lines, the Republican politicians saw to it that a Democratic ticket was set up, and that the vote of their adversaries remain divided. The language of the "Leader" is a product of the identical thought that guided the Republicans in the instance above quoted.

Whether the Whitney-Cleveland-Fairchild element of the Democracy carry out their plans of reorganizing the Democratic party or not. Bryanism will b kept up on the political field, the Republicans will see to that.

If the Whitney-Cleveland-Fairchild element fail in its plan, then the Republicans will be spared considerable trouble: all they might then have to d would be to set up, as they did this year, stool-pigeon parties like the Social Democracy to catch such elements as had graduated beyond Bryanism and that might move on masse into the Socialist Labor Party.

If, however, the Whitney-Cleveland-Fairchild element succeed, then the Republican politicians will have their hands full. Such reorganization as the Whitney-Cleveland-Fairchild element would bring about the "Leader" justly foresees, would place the Democratic party completely abreast of the Republican in uncompromising and unqualified capitalism. The thus reorganized Democracy might compete with much of the element that now backs up the Republican party. but it would certainly repel large bodies of men who now support it in the mistaken belief that it represents the workingman. Where is that element to go? This is the question that agitates the mind of the "Leader" and justly so; and its question foreshadows the answer.

There will be for some time to com political half-way houses set up by the political agents of the capitalist class in which to humor the masses. One such house may not suffice. We have seen require, we may be certain they will all be set up, regardless of the expense encontrol of the Democratic party. That game is nothing less than to prevent the cialist element, through keeping away from it all the elements that belong to it, but that have not yet abandoned their illusions.

This game may last some time; how long it is hard to predict; Lut its end will be disastrous to those who play it. As people, who discover they have been cheated at the gaming table, frequently rise in indignation and break chairs and tables over the heads of the cheats, so will the masses of the soters, who have been lured into capitalist political haifway houses, some day discover that they have been all along cheated out of what they were after,-and they will break the half-way houses over the heads of the capitalist parties.

THEY INDICT THEMSELVES.

A printed circular has reached this office, dated Tampa, Fla., Nov. 14, 1900, and signed "International Cigarmakers' Union No. 336." The circular purports to give the International Cigarmakers' side of the story in the conflict that has broken out between it and "La Resis-'tencia," an independent local of cigarmakers in Tampa. It is a great pity that the extraordinary length of the statement now issued by Union 336 makes impossible the giving of it in full. Unable to reproduce it, we shall mention its salient features. These certainly are worth knowing. The statement of Union 336 is addressed to the businessmen, but more especially to the cigar manufacturers of Tampa. These are told that Union 336, together with its national organization, the International Cigarmakers' Union, is a "conservative organization." whereas La Resistencia is depicted as a revolutionary affair, a body of "malcontents," presumably, of course, malcontents with the existing social conditions: that Union 336, together with the whole International Union, consists of "American workingmen," and the inference is allowed to transpire that the La Resistencia body consists of non-American workingmen; the further point is made against La Resistencia that it is guided by "imported agitators": and finally the attention of the manufacturers is called to the great advantage to them of having Union 336 men for their employees, on the allegation that these men are infinitely more helpless in their dealings with the manufacturers than La Resistencia men would be. The exact language upon this last point is as follows: "This Union must, by its law and constitution, get a general vote of all American Unions of cigarmakers before your factories are closed by a strike": this Union, consequently, "is a better friend to you than a local Union like the Resistencia," which "can vacate your tables on an instant's notice," and thus

"damage your best interest." Union 336 could hardly have drawn fuller indictment against itself, along with its Gompers-Strasser-Maroushek-Dan Harris International organization of cigarmakers. Out of its own mouth it stands convicted a body inspired wholly by sentiments, views and principles that are repulsive to Labor, and that can only be a curse to the Working Class.

It is not the voice of honorable Labor that ever breathes race or national distinctions. These distinctions are levers for the capitalist, the exploiter, to wield. The workingman who stirs up these distinctions is a reprobate: the organization of workers that utters such language is a libel upon a Labor Organization.

It is not the voice of virile Labor ment" with existing conditions; least of all is it the voice of virile Labor that would ever take from the lips of the fleecers themselves the word "malcontent" with which these ever seek to stigmatize the virile worker, who, chafing under the yoke of capitalism, seeks to emancipate himself. The workingman who applies the word "malcontent" to his fellow wage slave is a poltroon; the organization of workers, guilty of such an act, is a barn of white-livered dunghill-cocks.

It is not, no, never is it the voice of loyal Labor that will make a virtue out of its own weakness with the capitalist, and that will raise the colors of the "Employer's Interests" above the colors of the "Interests of Labor." The workingman who hucksters his services with praises of his own "inoffensiveness" to the exploiter is a deserter; the the workingman or organization of workers, that would warn the exploiter against the wage slaves who organize in such manner as to be most powerful in their conflicts with Capital,-such an organization is a traitor to the Working Class.

After sinning on these cardinal points, and standing branded by its own irons as a prostituted concern, it can hardly add much to the infamy of Union 836 that even in its cowardly posture, the colors it flies are fraudulent.

Odd, indeed, must sound the charge against the La Resistencia agitator that he is "imported," when the charge comes from an organization whose Or-The vote of the Belgian delegation for keeping it down to the out-and-out So- ganised Scabberg swarms with such qualification seems to be wholly over-malodorous importations as the Marousheks, the Gomperses, the Strassers, the Dan Harrises, etc., etc., etc. Again, the infamy of Union 336 gains deeper dye-a dye that spreads over the whole International Union, which it seeks to bolster itself with-, when its claim is considered that, by the International Union's laws, "no shop can be closed by a strike without a general vote of all the Unions." What about Davis's shop in this city? No such general vote has been taken; indeed, none such is needed; the shop itself voted over whelmingly against a strike; and yet it lican press, and its effectiveness in the was pronounced on strike by the "imported" agitators, in violation of the actual law of the International Union and, based on this violation of its own laws, the Organized Scabbery of the Internation Union have had the effrontery to calumniate the Allinancemen who went to work at Davis's despite the bogus strike. The organization of labor that is not planted squarely on the class struggle can develop only in one direction,- the direction of a buffer for the capitalist class, run by the Labor Lieutenants of Capital. Pure and simpledom is the enemy born of the Working Class: it is twin brother to the Capitalist Class. The statement of Union 336, together with the conduct of the rest of the International Union, furnishes, though merely cumulative, still valuable evidence of this fact.

USING VICE IN VICE'S INTEREST

It is not merely in an indirect way that the dishonesty of the anti-vice campaign of the Bishop Potter element stands proven. Indirectly it has been proven by the circumstance that the campaign is to be carefully kept out of those districts in which the Bishop Potter element derives profit from vice; and it has been indirectly proved also by the masterly satire of Mr. Croker. When the leader of Tammany Hall, the organization whose revenues are largely drawn from Vice, came out as an anti-vicer. he did nothing short of holding the mirror up to the Bishop Potter element and by letting them see their own lines ments, convey the information that he and the public know what those lines are. Directly also this fraudulent campaign stands nailed.

Vice, the special vice, that Goo-gooism has entered the lists against is a special product of Capitalism; aye, it is a prop of capitalism. The wages paid to girls are not supposed to he able to support them. What anti-vicer is there who would not fly off the handle at the bare mention of a demand for living wages by shop girls? There is not one. In line with this come other ugly incidents.

For about eight months during this year a mammoth eigarmakers' strike was on. Most of the strikers were women. They wanted higher wages. What was the issue? What with the material interests of the employers and the special ized material interests of the Organized Scabbery that ran the strike, the girls were kept out. Some, not a few, may have found their account in the strike. The strike benefit may have enabled them to live without work. But others there were whom the strike struck hard, It struck hard in more ways than one Not only were they kept in deeper poverty, but they fell into bad habits. The Organized Scabbery, under whose rule and dictation they stood, and who have joined the Bishop Potter element's crusade, resorted to all manner of devices to "entertain" those girls. Music, narcoticize them into submission and pliancy by furnishing them with "a good time." The strike was lest,-and, along with it, some of these girls. We are informed of five, who, via the strike, have increased the "Army of Vice."

How true to life is the conduct of the Organized Scabbery in joining the Bishop Potter element! How well summarized is the whole by the "death-bed conversion" of Croker!

All around Vice is being used as blind in the interest of Vice.

A TELL-TALE PHENOMENON.

There is a certain news item that, since election, has been quite frequent in "labor" and "reform" papers. It is item conveying the news of papers that have dropped their former economic or political affiliations and have come out as "Social Democratic papers." These papers were all in the "reform" movement, more or less pronouncedly. By actual count on a tally-sheet there are now nine of these converts and more seem to be coming. They surely will

The fact is taken hold of by the Deb sites and the Kangaroos. They are parading it about as a sign of increasing strength. Fact is that few symptoms are more significant of assured downfall than these very "conversions."

The role of the press, and all that thereby hangs, is a matter of no slight importance. It deserves a study that is not usually given it.

The press is a powerful engine,-for looked by most people. Not so by the working class organized in the Socialist Labor Party. The question of who, in a conflict, controls a paper is the only question that will determine the side that the paper will benefit. Hence, the Socialist Labor Party, with a narrowness that renders it intolerable to all schemers or visionaries, tolerates no paper as an organ that it does not own wholly, whose continued loyalty, accordingly, it can not guarantee.

Not infrequently one hears allusions to the private ownership of the Repubcause of abolitionism. Drawing a parallel from this fact, the strictness of the Socialist Labor Party position on the subject is condemned by the "reformers" very generally as spicidal

It is essential to all Listoric parallel that allowance be made for circumstances. A match will not always produce an explosion: thrown into water, it will be extinguished. With the abolition issue, the private ownership of an abolition paper raised no danger to the abolition cause: the guns of the paper ran no risk of being turned against abolitionism, even though in private hands for the simple reason that economic power lay on the side of abolitionism. The conflict was between the remnant of feudalism and capitalism. The sceptre of economic rule had passed into the hands of the capitalist. The feudal foe had nothing to bribe the editor on the capitalist side with. For a time these were bribed with Presidencies or the lure of Presidencies; but presently even this was made impossible by the increasing power of capitalism. A privately owned abolition paper was, accordingly, a paper owned by capitalism, and was safe, But how now?

A feature, a very striking feature, of the pending Social Revolution is the complets difference, in point of economic power, between the class that is to put through this revolution and the successive classes that put through previous recolutions. At all previous revolutions, the revolutionary class, had gained economic preponderance; at this revolution, the revolutionary class, the working class, is essentially a class stripped of all economic power: it is a propertyless class. It goes without say ing that the loyalty of the individual who stands on the side of such a class. would stand on very slippery ground, unless he stood under direct control of the organization of that class. Accordingly, self-elected editors, and private owners of a paper that assails the ruling class, are guns in doubtful hands, Experience has shown that they have been bought out in job lots.

The Peffer element, four years ago, silenced the bulk of the more radical Populist press by simple purchase. It is an open secret that Republican money supported the middle-of-the-road press this year to hurt Bryan. In the Labor Movement itself, instances are thick as pie of papers that started with the best intentions of the owner, presently found it hard to live without advertising patronage, and, to get this, were forced to trim to the class interests that they had started to combat. For a living, they became traitors. The Schenectady, N. Y. "Toiler." is a striking illustration.

What is happening with the Debserie is a tell-tale phenomenon. The more private concerns start papers as organs of the Social Democracy, the greater is the danger for that body. Either the Social Democracy must wink at the lapses inseparable from such papers, and then it will rush to its destined perdition all the faster; or, if it don't, then will it be denounced as "narrow and intolerant" by these "Socialist" editors for revenue only, and its downfall will be equally prompt: the farce of the pretence that a second Socialist party is needed would become too transparent to take in any but idiots.

On either side the much boasted-about increase of the Social Democratic press points to a germ of sure death. Already this "new Socialist party" has quite enough of these germs in the make-up of its press; a rush of such germs will finish it up all the quicker.

Like the scorpion carries within it the poison that kills it, wrongful and wrong-headed movements either bring that poison along with them or attract it obedient to their true instinct.

The ways of Providence may be inscrutable, but they are unerring.

Mr. J. A. Wayland, who is the "Appeal to Squeezum," has a plan. It is a cold day that he has not one, but for the present occasion his plan is more than a two by four. It is no other than a scheme whereby he can move away from Girard, Kansas, go to some small town, and have the town grow up with his paper. All that is necessary to have J. A. in your midst is to offer to him reasonable terms, low taxes, cheap heat and power, immunity from disturbance, and good business site. He just gave away business site, or rather he will give one have the giving act tried on him. Re cently, according to his own statement. he produced more papers than were ever published before. In order to do this he worked his force eighteen hours a day and made them sleep in the building where they worked. All this is unionism of the most pronounced character-union hours and union conditions If you are willing to overlook these slight matters, and are also willing to give Mr. Wayland the complete run of your town for nothing, he will pack his "Appeal" in a neat box and locate it where you can access to it. Another good thing about it is that it will not make Socialists in the neighborhood. Last election it tooted for the Social Democracy and received a dozen odd votes in its own dig-Perhaps Wayland would be a useful man to locate in some portion of the country where the Socialist vote was becoming dangerous.

The poor union label. It had a short. spring of prosperity in the printing trades during campaign time, but now it has been placed on the shelf until a new election comes in sight. The work for Christmas advertising, pamphlets, advertising cards, leaflets and little publications of all sorts, are being issued the label is on none of them. It stamped one thing, certainly, because it called the attention of all to the fact that pure and simple unions get their greatest graft from politics. All candidates are good union men when running for office, but few of them continue even such trivial recognition as a label after the campaign is over. The only way, from the pure and simple standpoint, to remdifficulty is to have election time all the time.

There has been a most startling in crease in the number of beggars of late. Some of the tenement districts are over run with them, and they are a menace to everyone. Women who are at home while their husbands are at work, com plain that the beggars ring their and, having gained access to the house make a complete round of it. In some cases they are cringing and crawling. In others they are bold, and meet any refusal with the most insulting abuse Such a state of affairs is due to the lac of work. Perhaps, after looking at the dimensions, it would be better to cut it up into shingles and wear them out spanking the idiot who owns it.

Some curious facts have come to light relative to the great edition of the "Appeal to Reason" gotten out for campaign purposes by Mr. Wayland. He calls himself the "One Hoss Editor," but he proves thereby that he has overlooked the ears. The great edition which he published, and for which he bled the weakminded from Maine to California, was supposed to make a million Socialist votes for Debs before election. But, alas, and alack! The papers did not reach many towns and cities until several days after election. The great J.A.W. worked his mule power press for several days, and while the votes were be ing cast, and while the votes were being counted, his "boys" were still grinding away on the edition to make votes. Up in New England, where a liberal supply was ordered, most of the papers arrived on the following Thursday. The they made will be kept in cold storage until 1904.

Brussels, Nov. 3.

To the DAILY PEOPLE.-There was unusual activity among the trades ions here this year during the Parliamentary elections, and some of the accrooked character. The 1913 a list of tile Workers' Federation sent a list of questions to the different candidates, questions to the different candidates. questions to the different candidates, and intimated that the union men would support those giving the most favorable answers. The questions dealt with abolition of overtime for women, compenplaces, extension of the franchise, old age pensions, and nationalization of the The result was very satisfactory. All the candidates would do all these things. Sir F. Flannery, with his heart beating high for his native country, was in favor only of the national-hation of the Irish roads.

The whole result was delightfully in-faite, and shows the amount of work that can be and is done in a political campaign by an organization that does not believe in politics. It also shows the blindness and stupidity of the leaders, and it proves beyond a doubt that they know nothing and care for nothing excepting to make as much money out The Independent Labor Party won a lew seats, but that does not mean that "labor" won anything, or that the cause of the working class has been at all advanced. In fact the contrary is true.

They have bound the workers, and they have created so much confusion that it will be almost impossible to do saything until the whole trades union borement is placed upon its proper bas-that is until we have an organization ar to your Socialist Trade and La-

A feature of the campaign was the Cabor of compromises into which the on succeeded in making. They did not have a straight, unendorsed candidate in the field. Everywhere they eithragreed to keep out of the struggle, and tow their vote for either Liberal or Conservative, or else they obtained the support of a Liberal or a Conservative for their ticket. It was and is a bargain, and it must be adhered to. This fact of its being a bargain will make it possible for the new members they to in Parliament to do anything, that members made a specialty of appealing to the labor vote, and in those appeals they were assisted by the trades union There was not a unionist in the country who was not out openly for some party. In a few cases they ran for office themselves, but even then the could not break away from their habits, and sneaked and skulked in the field of polities as they sneaked and skulked on the economic field.

At Bradford, Yorkshire, an incident occurred which illustrates this fact. There was one Conservative, two Liberal, and one Independent Labor candidates running. When the votes counted it was found that about one third of the Independent Labor Party vote was split in favor of the Conservative candidate while the Liberals voted This means that the "labor men delivered their votes as per contract but in the final count they were out of it. They had simply been fooled

A decided move must be made here as the fakir has fastened on every body of workers in the United Kingdom. The only thing that will be effective is a political organization to take the place of the present vote catching and delivering associations. There is a slight indication that such a move will take place. We know that when it does we shall have America, but we also know that unless we do make such a move this fasir drained class will find itself eyen deeper

One View of the Debserie.

To the DAILY PEOPLE+It gave me pleasure to-day to read your editorial "The Watered 1892," not only because it confirmed my view on the Debserie as a second, revamped, but smaller cdi tion of Populism, but chiefly because it has shown me that you people, the members of the general stuff of our army, have drawn proper conclusions from the facts furnished by the election we just emerged from. It appeared to me all through this campaign that our leading comrades were underestimating the position, and the part to be played by the Debserie in the history of this country. Instead of being a political ghost that could be simply laughed or ridiculed out of the field, as its prototype, the "Cincinnati faction," was, the Debserie has actually entered the pontical arena as a handmaid of capitalism, as a fin-de-siecle "People's Party," and instead of being at the end of its rope, as most of our comrades appeared to believe, it has in my opinion before itself, like the People's party No. 1, a short but noisy career, till the balloon is sufficiently in flated to burst-like the former did.

As in the case of the old People's party the maddled "principles" of modern Debserie and its criminal tacties will not check its growth, but on the contrary will assist it on its caree of a political prostitute by attracting the crude chips of the crumbling Democratic party. It appears to me as quite possible and even likely that during the next few years the Debserie will grow big enough to be fit to be used as paint for the withered cheeks of the old dame more to rejuvenate the dving Demicratic

To the DAILY PEOPLE.-Warnecke's letter from Denver, Colo., in last Sunday's DAILY PEOPLE, in which he tells how Debs, in his presence, sneered at the agitation of the Socialist Labor Party, claiming that the editor of the PLOPLE had stamped the country twice and produced only 36,564 votes is a very timely bit of information. Let us see what Mr. Debs has accom-

He has spoken before millions of men, and there was not a city or industrial town of any importange that was left unvisited by him. All work was done under the most favor able circumstances, and every meeting was held in a hall. The advertising was both extensive and expensive. After making all due allowance for inflated figures and for the boasts in which his followers indulged, it is probable that Debs'spoke to over 4,000,000 persons. Every where he obtained a patient hear-ing. He torsal the ing. He toured the country at least ten times and what did he get? Not over 55,000 men voted for him. The hero of a thousand meetings, and "martyr" of Woodstock jail, the labor-pala din who had the wreck of the American din who had the wreck of the American Railway Union with him, who had the remnants of the Populist party, Organized Scabbery, the disgruated and vicious anti-Socialists obtained 55,000 votes! According to Mr. Debs' own method of gauging the effectiveness of an agi-tator, he falls greatly behind the editor of the PEOPLE. Mr. Debs speaks to 4,000,000 people and averages only 5,500 votes per trip, while the editor of the PEOPLE speaks to 10,000 people and averaged 18,282 per trip.

Tricking the Workers

To the DAILY PEOPLE-I wish to call your attention to some freaks and of the Third Assembly District. The explosion we had at Tarrant's Drug House a short time ago gave Sandy Dooner, a fakir of the first water, a chance to get his constituents a job, so next year he will be able to get their

The work was finished when the last body was found. The men were to get paid off Tuesday. They were in line from 11 o'cleck Tuesday morning till 1 o'clock Wednesday morning. The result was that not half the men were paid. If you had a letter from Skelly or some other poison seller you would get in without going in line.

Next year we are going to put the strangle-hold on some of them, and Tammanyites and Skellyites will come down. We will make them pull a truck on the Savannah line and sing that pathetic little ballad entitled "Tis better to be bungry than be starving." JOHN J. WALSH.

To the DAILY PEOPLE-The official vote of St. Clair County is: For President, Malloney, 184; Debs, For President, Manoney, 184, Debs.

 For governor, Hoffman, S. L. P.,
 S. D. P., 100, For Congress, Jennings, S. L. P., 194; S. D. P., — For entative, Yochum, S. L. P., 5141/2;

Debs received more than we did in oue way. He received $125 for a two-hours' lecture, during which he did not mention his party, but Mahon, of street railway union fame, said he was pleased to be there, so he could advise the people to vote for Eugene V. Debs-not the Social Democratic Party,

Tennessee who did not vote, because there was no tieset in the field. I make this explanation so the comrades from all over the country will know why we did not have but eight votes to credit, and to let you all know that this section, although not asleep. On the contrary it is wide this revolution for our emancipation. We have had no one to address our audiences but ourselves. I think the comrades of this section have done well, for we are rid of the Debsites, and this section is as free from the Kangaroos as it is from yellow fever.

The Party Platform.

the DAILY PEOPLE.-In the DAILY PROPLE of November 15 a suggestion is made by Comrade Granville F. Lombard in regard to certain planks which should appear in our plat-forr, and the same to be printed in the DAILY PEOPLE as a standing matter. The suggestion is doubtless well-meaning and probably will bear some on the platform of the Socialist Labor

Party.

It is not the difference of the platform which will show them up the working class, but it is their actions which will show them up. We cannot prevent them from copying all our planks, but they never in their life will copy our revolutionary standpoint by which our practice is directed. The are out for catching votes and that is manifested very clearly in their platform, even in the first half. We are not waiting until we may have "achieved the possession of the powers of govern-ment" to commence the fight for the Cooperative Commonwealth, but we are that also is manifest in OUR PLAT. FORM. It is quite clear that it takes just as much power to capture and reorganize into public ownership, a single monopoly as it takes to reorganize the whole system. Why shall we m promises which we cannot realize?

Furthermore, I doubt the ability to make our position towards the different points which are mentioned by Comrad G. F. Lombard clear enough by condensing them in the platform so that they may be clearly understood by new recruits or merely sympathizers, it is just as good to recommend them the books which are written on the different ubjects. A. METZL Rochester, New York, Nov. 18.

For Whom Did Ge saner Vote?

To the DAILY PEOPLE-Since learn ing the actual result of the election in Allegheny County a few observations may be of some advantage.

Here in Allegheny County, in spite of the fact that the Debserie had the en-dorsement of the United Labor League, and the services of Pap Grundy and Tax-Paying Frank Gessner, and were boosted by all the impure and simple union papers, we increased our vote 700 per cent., getting 1,887 votes, while the Deb serie got 424 votes, and died, as they have had their heads chopped off, and will not be in the local elections next was that in the Fifth precinct of the Twenty-fifth ward, the h 100 Gessner, we received 18 votes, while he must have voted for either Mallonev McKinley or Bryan. He assuredly die not vote for Wooley. Section Allegheny County is getting down to business. Lectures will be given once a week in the ward organizations, and at present we are getting ready to break the power of the labor fakirs and capture the honest element of the ting ready for the spring elections. As a result of this clear, systematical work we are next to New York in strength and it is our purpose to be second to none in the near future: So, New York and Syracuse, you had beter look out. H. J. SHADE.

Pittsburg, Nov. 20.

To the DAILY PEOPLE:--Comrad Lombard strikes the right chord in hi I have, for some time, strongly felt the shortcomings of our present platform an its inadaptibility to the requirements of As the comrad rather than prevent confusion by not clearly showing the difference between the revolutionary Socialist Labor Part and all parties now present or to come, whether they be in their nature freakish or fraudulent or designed to circumvent the working class.

But would a leaflet such as Comrade Lombard favors (though his outline in cludes so much matter for treatment that it seer as if a leaflet would not suffice erve the purpose?

Consider the social conditions that we confront. Economic development has practically reached the limit of its possibilities under capitalism. Socialism no longer a bogey to the working class The conditions of the present and the future create a veritable powder-mine over which the strongly entrenched capitalist class, drunk with its successes, holds fire-dance. Thus: the economic revolurevolution may almost at any born.

Now, I hold that what is wanted is a manifesto, covering the many points mentioned by Comrade Lombard, and or will in the future: for instance: our position regarding the acceptance of office from capitalist governments; the attitude which Socialists in office, and out, would hold towards reaction; against State Socialism; etc.; in short, an instrument in the kind like, and if you will, modelled after the famous and powerful "Communist Manifesto" of powerful "Communi Marx and Engels.

Such an instrument, comprehensive compact, an' relevant, would be a great agent in our propaganda; and in the event of a possible premature social up-heval, precipitated by some not now ap-parent happening, would be of incalcul-

Why cannot the party commissian one or more of its ablest writers to prepar such a "manifesto" or "programme?" I could be sold readily and broadcast, say at five cents per copy. I move, com-rades, for a "programme of the Socialist Labor Party." JOHN J. DUFFY.

Prosperity Strikes Soft-Coal Miners.

To the DAILY PEOPLE, In yester-day's issue of the DAILY PEOPLE you have credited the Debsites with 120 otes in Clearfield county, whereas th official count as sent to us by the Pro thonotary gives them only 41 votes The Houtzdale "Citizen," a Republican paper gives them also only 41. In and around Houtzdale and Brisbin there were only three votes cast for them, and we doubt very much that their vote 41 in the county. It would be well for comrades all over the land to see what their original vote is, for it looks as f the capitalists were trying to make it larger.

He said it was the policy of "Big Six," when it called a strike, that in the event of the shop being able to get non-union men, to run in some of its own members.

When I pointed out that such a scheme was nothing more or less than "Big Six" ratting against itself, he defended it as good tactics. He said that the object in such cases was to get enough men in and then call them out, thus again crippling the shop.

C. C. C. PLEMEANTVILLE, N. V. awhere the anti-Chinese immigration bill expires it will not probably be renewed. The farce will no longer to needed. The Chinese will no longer need to immigrate to find work, the Affectivan factories, quite enough of them, will emigrate to China and save the Chinese the trouble of coming over. The American steamship companies, who have mide a good thing transporting these Chinese, are the ones that may raise a kick, but they will be quieted.

w. A. I., PHILADELPHIA, PA.—There is no telling what may have been possible right after the crash of July 10 of last year. One thig, however, is certain: When the "Volkszelfung" staited court proceedings against the party in the attempt to steal the party press, from that moment all reconcilliation became impossible with that element. That was an act of absolute, unqualted, deep-dyed turpitude.

T. T. MYRICKS, MASS.—The S. Y. & L.
A. deed not "take the place of the union."
The S. T. & L. A. is a union itself. What the S. T. & L. A. alms at is to substitute itself in the place of the A. F. of L., K. of L., and all other pure and stuple unions that are run by the organized scabbery, that is, the labor lieutenants of the capitalist class.
The line of procedure of the S. T. & L. A. is to organize the unorganized messes, Whom the existing pure and simple union has disgusted with its weakness and corruption, and thus put an end to the labor fakir. Shall send you some S. T. & L. A. literature.

P. F. YONKERS, N. Y.—To you, too we

P. F., YONKERS, N. Y.—To you, too, we call out: "Facts! Facts!" Look for the facts, and face them squarely. If you do you will find that in this city, and in a few other towns, the Social Democratic vote was not meant as a vote for Socialism; it was meant as a demonstration of spire against the S. L. P. Now, on spite nothing can be built. See above, the answer answer to "Real Friend, New York."

H. B. F., MINNEAPOLIS, MINN—We have never seen or read the play "A Man "Mahosa in Contintry". There are some plays that may be given as Socialist propagands. Shall communicate with some party members who are posted on such matters. They will let you know.

T. W., WINONA, MINN.—Of course, if one looks at the large number of workingmen who voted for McKinley and gave him the victory, and one believes that these milinns of underfed, underclothed, and generally pinched men voted for McKinley because they were actually made to believe that their empty dinner-pails were full, then, indeed, one should despair. With such numb-sculis as such people would thus prove themselves to be nothing could be done. But we don't share your opinion. The reason those poor men voted for McKinley was a very different one. They voted for him because they labor under the accomment delusion that the interests of their employers are their interests, and vice trans. Their amployers and they wanted the transfer of their conscious of their class interests. Hence, you will see, the prime importance of Socialist doctrine on this score. Socialism can progress only in the measure that can progress only in the

E. C. T., ST. LOUCIS, MO.—It may be so; probably it is so; but only to a very limited extent. In all conflicts there will inevitably arise some personal feeling, some bitternets. But no one, ready to do exact the premises, and posted on the premises. justice in the premises, and posted on the doings of both sides, would charge the B. L. P. with excessiveness of severity. The S. L. P., on the contrary, deserves credit for its equanimity in the midst of all the difficulties of its position.

O. I. P., JACKSONVILLE, ILL.—It is said that there are just two things that cannot be hidden, love and a cough. There is a third, surely. That is corrupt deals in politics.

S. C., NEW LONDON, CONN.—In the laughter of folly wisdom hears half its appliause. What if these capitalist politicians laugh? What if misguided workingmen who voted for McKinley or Bryan, laugh? That surely is half the appliause hat the Socialist hears for his conduct. No such laughter will affect him.

R. E. T., JERSEY CITY, N. J.—There is no such city as Greater New York recognized by the postoffice department. Each of the component cities remain such on the postoffice register.

S. S., BRIDGEPORT, CONN.—The So-cial Democratic candidate for Assembly needed 500 signatures to get on the official ballot. He got them and a few more. Ha vote was 199 :fully 300 signatures were fur-nished him by Tammany Hall,

L. H., WORCESTER, MASS.—Most assuredly the Kautsky Resolution was pro-Milerandism. The Millerand question: the abstract question of his taking a political job; the concrete question of his tolerating, by continuing in the cabinet, the cabinet's conduct in the matter of the butcheries of workingmen—all these questions were palpitating questions, upermost in the minds of all the delegates when that resolution was up. Why, it needed no stress of the imagination to picture the shades of the workingmen, massacred with the consent of the cabinet, hovering over the congress and mosning their appeal to the delegates to be remembered and to be avenged by the defeat of the Kautsky resolution.

T. T., NEW HAVEN, CONN,—If your pre-mises were correct your conclusion certainly would be If, indeed, Bryanism were a step toward Socialism, then assuredly Debaism would be some more steps. But your premises are false, and with them fail your

E. L. L.SCHENECTADY, N. Y.-Buch document would be proper if meant as part of the municipal platform of the S. L. P. Section. It would be improper as a peti-rion merely, or implied petition to a cap-lialist municipal government.

The members of the Farty must be men who will walk in of their own free will.

Resolution, declaring that, therefore, all Socialists are hereby "invited," was carried and the unity yell given several times. Several more songs were sung, and a collection taken up, and the curtain dropped. After scores of "Kangs" had "welcomed us back home" Comrade Hiltner and my. self, the only Socialists present, left the hall. Thus ended the tenth edition of unity.

To the DATEY PEOPLE-I read the etter in the DAILY PEOPLE of last Sunday, signed by L. D., in regard to presenting the DAILY PEOPLE by each comrade with one dollar toward a Christmas gift. Reading the capitalist papers has filled me with disgust. From day to day they have misrepresented the only bona-fide workingmen's party in the United States, the fighting Socialist Labor Party. The only paper that is wholly (not owned by a trust, you know), devoted to their interests and emancipation is the peerless DAILY PEOPLE. The DAILY PEOPLE in its new form is O. K. It has just the event news that is O. K. It has just the exact news that workingmen want. Its editorials are sharp, straightforward, and to the point, Come, comrades save a dollar for an Xmas gift to the Daily People Fund.
